UK Covid spike would translate to 14L cases a day in India, warns govt

SUMI SUKANYA DUTTA @New Delhi

WARNING that the number of daily Covid-19 cases being reported from the UK and France could translate to 13-14 lakh cases in proportion to India's population, top government authorities on Friday sought a fresh reset of measures to keep infections under control. During the peak of the Delta wave in early May, India had reported over 4 lakh cases daily before the numbers dipped.

The UK on Friday reported over 93,000 fresh cases, while in France this number was above 65,000. Denmark and Norway, too, are reporting a massive surge in daily infections after Omicron fuelled the wave. Worryingly, these spikes are being reported despite a high coverage of Covid vaccinations and history of previous major waves, driven by Delta.

V K Paul, member (health) Niti Aayog and head of India's national Covid-19 task force, said that even though hospitalisations in Europe so far are low and there is no pressure on the health infrastructure, the situation is dynamic. "We have to be ready to face such a situation with such high numbers. Cold weather also leads to the breeding of the virus. Cases surge overnight and it becomes serious. Though the situation is stable, we must be cautious," he said.

Citing a WHO advisory, authorities urged people not to dismiss off Omicron cases as mild as the evidence is still emerging. So far, 101 Omicron cases have been confirmed from 11 states in India with the highest, 32, in Maharashtra alone. Lav Agarwal, joint secretary in the health ministry, said most of the cases have been confirmed either in people with direct history of international travel or their contacts, adding the evidence of its community transmission in India is low. ICMR head Balram Bhargava urged people to avoid non-essential travel and mass gatherings and to observe low intensity festivities. P3,9,20

Blow to Amazon as competition body suspends 2019 Future deal

Slaps ₹202 cr fine on the US firm for concealing info; asks it to apply afresh for nod

DIPAK MONDAL @ New Delhi

IN a big setback to Amazon, the Competition Commission of India (CCI) on Friday cancelled the approval it had given to the e-commerce major's acquisition of 49% stake in Future Coupons, a Future Group company, in 2019 and directed the US firm to apply afresh for clearance.

The anti-trust regulator also imposed a penalty of ₹202 crore on the e-tailer for "a deliberate design on the part of Amazon to suppress the actual scope and purpose of the deal".

While approving the deal in November 2019, the CCI had said the order would be revoked if, at any time, the information provided by the acquirer was found to be incorrect. The CCI reviewed its approval after several stakeholders, including an independent director of Future Retail and the Confederation of All India Traders, pointed out that the US behemoth had held back vital information. They submitted that Amazon had not disclosed its intention to take a strategic control over Future Retail, in which Future Coupons holds 9.82%.

Amazon had thwarted Future group's move to sell its retail business to Reliance Retail in a ₹24,000 crore deal by moving the Singapore International Arbitration Centre and getting a stay against the deal.

The CCI noted the intent disclosed by Amazon for seeking nod for acquisition of FCPL is different from what it disclosed before SIAC. The CCI also found Amazon had suppressed the fact that its deal with Future Coupons was "merely a vehicle to acquire interest over FRL".

According to legal experts, the CCI order makes Amazon's case in SIAC infructuous and, as a natural corollary, clears the path for the Reliance-Future deal.

Amazon said it was perusing the CCI order and would decide the future course of action soon, but sources hinted that the company would move court. However, Future Group insiders claimed Amazon can't move court since CCI had only kept its 2019 approval in abeyance and asked Amazon to apply for fresh nod.

WHAT NEXT

- If Amazon has to apply afresh for CCI approval, it will have to first get Future group's consent
- Future's consent out of question as it feels Amazon was using the deal as a proxy to gain strategic control over Future Retail
- Amazon may move court against the CCI order. But legal opinion is divided if it can do so since the CCI has only suspended its 2019 approval, not nixed it

Priyanka: What Ramesh said is indefensible

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Bengaluru

"I wholeheartedly condemn the statement made by KR Ramesh Kumar. It is inexplicable how anyone can ever utter such words. They are indefensible. Rape is a heinous crime. Full stop," said senior Congress leader Priyanka Gandhi Vadra on Friday, commenting on former Speaker and Congress MLA Ramesh Kumar's insensitive remark on the floor of the Assembly on Thursday.

Kumar, during a discussion on rain and flood devastation in the state on the floor of the Assembly on Thursday, said 'when rape is inevitable, one should lie down and enjoy it'. The issue echoed in the Lok Sabha too on Friday with Union Minister Smriti Irani saying Congress should first suspend Kumar before talking about women empowerment and raising slogans like "Ladki hoon, lad sakti hoon".

NEP: Parents for less screen time, more interaction

Want formal and traditional education, games brought back for preschoolers; Students will benefit if encouraged to go to libraries

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Bengaluru

MEETINGS to implement the National Education Policy (NEP) 2020 in pre-primary schools have already commenced, with members of the policy's preparation team inviting parents' opinions.

On Friday, several parents were allowed to voice their opinions and give insights into issues which could be resolved with the implementation of NEP. The members focused on what parents look for in a preschool, improvements to be made to the current system of education and whether children require support at home. This follows Primary and Secondary Education Minister BC Nagesh's announcement that NEP would be rolled out phase-wise in schools, starting from 2022. During the Assembly winter session, he said NEP would be implemented in select pre-primary schools in the coming academic year.

Parents from several schools around Bengaluru spoke on various issues that plagued their children, especially with schools opening after the lockdowns.

"My child who started offline school for the first time, was overwhelmed because she had not interacted with other students previously," said Poorna Shilpa, one of the parents. Many parents had faced similar lockdown-related issues. Padmasree, another parent, mentioned that she had difficulty limiting screen time for her child. "Students will benefit if they are encouraged to go to libraries and read books, and move away from phones and limit screen time," she said.Another parent, Neeharika Arvind, said she had noticed a big difference between offline and online classes, as children could take part in personal interactions and have more learning opportunities and moral lessons, when it came to sharing and other activities. Parents also said that students grasp concepts faster when teachers focused on students' interests.

A number of parents also expressed interest in bringing back more traditional learning during playtime. Shveta Swamy, a parent, said, "We're very happy with how moral-based learning has been implemented, however, there can be improvements on playtime"

Saturation of ground caused sinkhole: Palike

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Bengaluru

A day after the sinkhole appeared on JC Road, the BBMP officials have made a U-turn in the blame game with the BWSSB, saying that saturation of water from a small hole on the road was the cause. To ensure that such sinkholes don't appear elsewhere, the BBMP head office has instructed the engineers in all zones to check for holes on asphalted roads and to fix them immediately.

The directive left Palike engineers on ground baffled. The magnitude of the task to check each city road for such holes, apart from potholes, has left engineers wondering how they can accomplish it.

Palike Chief Engineer (road and infrastructure) B S Prahlad said that an increase in water saturation level, coupled with excess seepage from the adjoining drains, leading to sudden collapse of the soil beneath JC Road. Horizontal drilling in the city for laying cables also leads to water seepage and loosening of the soil beneath the surface, he added.

In his report, Prahlad noted that the sub-soil volume had reduced because of leakages in pipelines causing a cavity beneath the road surface. Another reason for sinkhole to appear is when an unused well is filled up in an improper manner, which, over the years, causes the soil to cave in due to percolation.

However, experts are not convinced. They said that improper tarring and road repairs lead to formation of sinkholes.

No confirmation on KPSC re-exam for 200 candidates

S LALITHA @Bengaluru

THE vociferous aspirants from Bengaluru and surrounding areas, who missed Part-I exam of PWD Assistant Engineers conducted by the Karnataka Public Service Commission (KPSC) on December 14 due to train delays, have got a second chance at writing the exam, but nearly 200 other candidates, who had come to Bengaluru from far-off places on two trains and missed writing the exam due to similar delays, have not yet been told whether they too will get a second shot at the exam.

These candidates had come to the city on two trains from Kalaburagi, Bidar, Raichur and Sedam that landed late at Yesvantpur and KSR railway stations.

Sachin, a civil engineering graduate from Bidar, was among nearly 120 KPSC candidates on board the Bidar-Yesvantpur Express that reached Yesvantpur only at 11.05 am instead of 7.50 am.

The candidates made a dash to different exam centres after it reached Yesvantpur. "My exam centre was at PU College in Seshadripuram. I reached after the first exam got over and I could write only the second paper," he added.

He said, "Bengaluru candidates have been given a second chance. Why not for us? This job means so much to us as it was cancelled twice since 2018." The Commission has already announced fresh exam date for candidates from Udyan Express (11302) going from KSR Bengaluru towards Kalaburagi.

Zulqarnain was among 80-plus candidates who were on board the Udyan Express (11301) coming to KSR railway station. "When the train stopped 20 km from Hindupur, we pleaded with the locopilot. But he expressed helplessness as there was no signal clearance. Our train reached KSR at 10.45 am," he said. They went to the KPSC office later and explained their plight.

After many calls, KPSC Secretary G Satyavathi asked this reporter, "Why are you playing the role of a spokesperson for them? Let the candidates approach us. Every communication addressed to us it taken seriously."

Wall blocks road, residents forced to take 1-km detour

DONNA EVA @ Bengaluru

AMONG the many issues dogging Mudaliyar Layout in Kasavanahalli, is a wall allegedly encroaching a road and blocking residents from reaching Kasavanahalli Main Road.

Five years ago, a compound wall was built over what used to be a commonly used road, which connects Mudaliyar and KPC Layouts to the main road, forcing residents to take a kilometre-long detour. Despite multiple complaints filed with Bengaluru Metropolitan Task Force (BMTF), no action has been taken.

Residents here say there used to be a signboard with '5th Cross, Kasavanahalli' on it, but soon after the wall encroached the road, the sign was taken down. Residents said they face numerous other issues too, including poor roads, mosquito menace and a bad stench due to open defecation in the area.

Several members of Mudaliyar Layout Residents Welfare Association (MLRWA) told TNIE on condition of anonymity, "We can't open our windows because of the stench, rainwater stagnates because of the encroachment. Our roads turn into a mess, and cabs, autorickshaws and even emergency services refuse to ply here."

"The biggest issue is the encroachment, if the government is unable to protect its own property, there is little we can do," said an MLRWA member.

According to BBMP documents, funds had been sanctioned twice for road work -- once in 2017 and another in 2019 – but the road has not been asphalted, with major portions turning into sludge pits. The residents said they had themselves collected money and got parts of the road tarred. "The authorities assured us the road would be constructed by this month-end so we're still hopeful," another member said.

A slushy road in Kasavanahalli| EXPRESS

A lack of toilets for day labourers in the area forces them to use empty plots behind the layout, residents said. "We've made multiple requests to the health inspector who assures us it will be sorted, but nothing has happened yet. The stench becomes unbearable when it rains, we can't even open our front doors," said another member.

Area BBMP health inspector Rajanna said, "I'm aware of the issue and will inspect the area next week." BBMP Joint Commissioner R Venkatachalapathy said he would investigate the alleged illegal encroachment immediately.

CAR DAMAGE

Insurance firm told to compensate legal heir

YATHIRAJU @ Bengaluru

THE Consumer Disputes Redressal Commission has ruled that when an original vehicle owner dies, the legal heir who is named nominee in the insurance policy is entitled to claim damages in case of loss of the vehicle.

"The complainant is one of the legal heirs of deceased A Narayana, who had insured his car through Trident Hyundai, who having received the premium subsequent to his death, issued a policy for the period from April 4, 2018 to April 3, 2019. Even though the complainant is not mentioned as insured, his name is mentioned as a nominee. Therefore, the complainant had insurable interest on the date of the incident," said the Bengaluru Urban Second Additional District Consumer Disputes Redressal Commission.

Partly allowing the complaint filed by Nithin Narayan from Hongasandra, against HDFC Ergo General Insurance Company Ltd, the Commission said that the vehicle was completely burnt but the insurer neglected to pay the assured sum to the complainant. This amounts to deficiency of service. The insurance company is liable to pay Rs 5.61 lakh, the cost of the vehicle, with compensation of Rs 50,000, and Rs 5,000 towards litigation cost to the complainant.

Daily Starscope

PETER VIDAL

18th December : My planet of the day is Jupiter, symbol of hope and faith in the future. This powerful planet is about to take up a new position, one which encourages us to focus on practical matters. The question is what we can do to make everyday life much better. A great way to start is to look after people worse of than ourselves.

ARIES
(Mar 21 - Apr. 20)

Public and worldly events generally move in your direction, although you may be just a little too likely to over-react. A friend may have abandoned a joint arrangement in the last few days, but there's no need to go over the top. You know from past experience that when your emotions get going it's very hard to call a halt!

TAURUS
(Apr. 21 - May 21)

Taurus is what is termed a fixed sign, and it's this aspect of your astrological character which governs your reluctance to change. Yet, while you may wish your circumstances to remain the same, you must now make attempts to improve your inner self.

GEMINI
(May 22 - June 21)

Someone seems to have cut you to the quick, but you can be pretty sharp yourself. Many of you will be in a mood to join battle as soon as you are provoked. The flash point may not come today, or even tomorrow, but you must remain on your guard.

CANCER
(June 22 - July 23)

Isn't it about time you thought more clearly about what you want to do before you do it? Normally your intuition works just fine, but now that everyone else is being so opinionated, you might as well say your piece and insist that the facts are finally heard.

LEO
(July 24 - Aug. 23)

Enforced or unexpected changes on the home front should now be complete. Even if you're still clearing up a mess caused by other people, the chances are that you won't have to cope with any other major developments for a little while - at least not until next week!

VIRGO
(Aug. 24 - Sept. 23)

Venus, planet of love, has begun to exert an entirely new influence over your sign, bringing its soothing influence to your emotional life. Don't expect immediate results, but do anticipate an improvement in your mood within seven days - or even sooner.

LIBRA
(Sept. 24 - Oct. 23)

Certain individuals have been trying to kick up a fuss, but the question you must answer is whether your long-term interests are served by joining in the general melee or maintaining a dignified silence. If you're confident in your own gifts, and future, you can afford to keep quiet.

SCORPIO
(Oct. 24 - Nov. 22)

The situation at home still looks changeable, helped by the fact that you seem to be under less pressure. Just ensure that you do not say more than circumstances warrant. Keep on the right side of those whose support and approval is vital, if only for your own peace of mind.

SAGITTARIUS
(Nov. 23 - Dec. 22)

Romantic prospects are reasonably favourable, but the time for fun and spontaneity seems to have temporarily receded. Security appears to be the overriding issue. You'll judge others against some sensible and very individual standards of maturity and commonsense.

CAPRICORN
(Dec. 23 - Jan. 20)

To a certain extent your actions are governed by what other people expect. However, you have a choice. You need to think about what, exactly, is in your best interests. Should you listen to your own instincts or follow expert advice, even if it goes against the grain? There's no need to hurry it!

AQUARIUS
(Jan. 21 - Feb. 19)

Planetary activity in and around delicate regions of your chart encourages you to express a completely different side of your character. You'll begin to see that other people will be more impressed by your ability to get your life together rather than by your Aquarian tendency to strike poses.

PISCES
(Feb. 20 - Mar 20)

Spending plans and shopping sprees should ideally be completed this morning, leaving you free to make the most of livelier conditions this afternoon. Don't expect partners to be rational. You can appeal to their feelings as only a true Piscean can.

Govt debating curbs, night curfew; home quarantine must for all international travellers

WITH experts suggesting curbs for Chirstmas and New Year celebrations, in view of the sudden surge in Covid-19 cases and the Omicron variant, BBMP Chief Commissioner Gaurav Gupta said they were mulling imposition of Section 144 in Bengaluru.

Gupta told the media on Friday, "We are thinking of this and the matter is being discussed. So far, no proposal has been sent. The government is also mulling what needs to be done. We have to address how to break the virus chain."

At a meeting of BBMP and health department officials with experts, it was suggested that Section 144 and night curfew will reduce crowds on roads and break the chain. Experts also suggested not to permit night parties on MG Road and Brigade Road on December 31. They also discussed vaccine status, containment zones, sealing of areas where Omicron cases are reported, and aggressive contact tracing of all those who test positive for Covid-19.

Gupta also said that so far, no proposal or suggestion has been sent to the government on this, and protocols and guidelines issued by the state and central governments are being adhered to.

On the question of quarantine for all international travellers, Gupta said they must remain in home quarantine for a week, irrespective of the country they are flying in from, and even if they have a negative RT-PCR test report. On the eighth day, a re-test will be done and if they are found without symptoms and their report comes negative, they can move about. He added that the government is yet to take a decision if institutional quarantine should be made mandatory for all international travellers.

Also, travellers found positive on arrival or even those who show symptoms, irrespective of country of origin, will be sent to hospital for tests and treatment, and the next course of action will be decided based on clinical test reports.

On the status, acceptance and implementation of a universal pass in Karnataka, Gupta said that only Maharashtra is implementing it. In Karnataka, however, carrying a soft copy of the second vaccine certificate and negative RT-PCR test report is sufficient. The state has not made universal pass mandatory.

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE

THE swab samples of a passenger who returned from Ghana on Thursday to Mangaluru have been sent to genomic sequencing to Bengaluru. The passenger, who returned to Mangaluru from Ghana on Thursday, had tested positive for Covid-19 in the RT-PCR test conducted at the airport.

Dakshina Kannada Deputy Commissioner Dr Rajendra KV held a meeting with airport and health officials on Friday.

The passenger has been shifted to an isolation ward in District Wenlock Hospital in Mangaluru, and is asymptomatic. The health department has identified 27 passengers, who are the passenger's primary contacts, and have been quarantined after conducting RAT and RT-PCR tests.

BELAGAVI RESIDENT TESTS POSITIVE FOR OMICRON

Belagavi: A 53-year-old resident who returned from Nigeria recently, was found to be infected by Omicron. He is a resident of Azam Nagar in Belagavi. According to sources, the infected had taken two doses of Covidshield in Nigeria. After he reached KIA, he underwent a Covid test on December 13, and was allowed to fly to Belagavi immediately, even before his test report was released. After his report was out on December 14, authorities in Bengaluru alerted the Belagavi administration, and the man was rushed from his residence to the district hospital and isolated. Belagavi City Corporation Health Officer Dr Sanjay Dumgol told TNIE that the traveller has been isolated in hospital. ENS

THE Karnataka High Court on Friday permitted the National Neonatology Forum to hold four-day Neocon 2021 (Hybrid), a convention of NNF India on the theme "Innovate, Illuminate and Inculcate Quality Care for Every Newborn", at a resort near Hoskote in Bengaluru Rural District. The convention will conclude on December 19.

The court permitted the convention in view of the specific stand taken by the organisers that the number of participants is only 305 and only those whose RT-PCR is negative and have taken two doses of vaccine had been permitted to participate. The organisers had also informed the court that Standard Operating Procedure would be strictly adhered too as well. The court said compliance of SOP should be strictly ensured.

FLOOD RELIEF STRETCHING STATE'S FINANCES, WARNS TOP PANEL

Fiscal Management Review Committee says economic activity reaching pre-pandemic levels

REVENUE COLLECTED

₹36,285 cr	COMMERCIAL TAXES
₹12,396 cr	EXCISE
₹2,836 cr	MOTOR VEHICLE TAXES
₹5,942 cr	STAMPS & REGISTRATION

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Belagavi

The Fiscal Management Review Committee (FMRC) has taken objection to increased expenditure commitments on relief activities in flood-hit districts. The state is stretching beyond State Disaster Response Fund (SDRF) and National Disaster Response Fund (NDRF) norms, because of which the financial burden has increased on the state, it observed.

The committee recommended that going forward, the state should stick to the expenditure in disaster relief only as per the guidelines of the central government. Currently, the state government is offering Rs 5 lakh compensation to houses that have suffered damage beyond 50 per cent which is considered against the SDRF norms. It stated that the state's economic activity showed recovery from the second quarter of the financial year 2021-22 after it was hit by the second wave of the Covid pandemic in the first quarter. The increase in revenue collection is seen to be reaching pre-pandemic levels as the economic activity has picked up across sectors. The committee, headed by Chief Secretary P Ravikumar and other senior officials of the Finance Department, stated that overall, the fiscal position of the state was weak because of the drop in revenue collection after transport restrictions were imposed in May and June during the second wave of Covid-19.

Revenues from the state's own taxes stood at 57,714 crore, which is 46 per cent of the budgeted estimate of Rs 1,24,202 crore. In the first half of the fiscal, the state collected Rs 36,285 crore from commercial taxes as against the budgeted estimate of Rs 76,473 crore, Rs 12,396 crore from excise and Rs 5,942 crore from stamps and registration fees. Collections from motor vehicle taxes have been sluggish as the state has managed to collect just Rs 2,836 crore as compared to the budgeted estimate of Rs 7,515 crore.

The committee also pointed to increased commitment due to major and minor irrigation works and Public Works Department projects. It is 5 to 8 times the annual budget of respective departments. FMRC recommended to the government not to sanction any new works till the commitments are brought down to a ratio of 1:3 (Budget: Cost of Work approved).

If my remarks have hurt women and their feelings, I express regret. I have no ego in expressing regret. The entire House has respect for women

After outrage, Ramesh Kumar regrets rape remarks in House

PRAMODKUMAR VAIDYA
@ Belagavi

UNDER attack from leaders, cutting across party lines, for his rape remark on the floor of the Assembly on Friday, which stirred a huge controversy, senior Congress leader KR Ramesh Kumar expressed regret for his out-of-turn comment and said his intention was neither to insult women nor demean dignity of the House. He also said he wanted to end the issue right away.

Speaking at the start of Friday's session, Ramesh Kumar, a former Assembly Speaker himself, said, "If my remarks have hurt women and their feelings, I express regret." Stating that he was not defending his remark, Kumar claimed that it was taken out of context and given a different colour. "I have no ego in expressing regret. The entire House has respect for women," he added.

Speaker Vishweshwara Hegde Kageri, who had also come under fire for laughing at Ramesh Kumar's remark, said, "We are one family and we also have family ties. When I said 'Let's enjoy the situation', Ramesh Kumar made some remark, which led to the controversy. The entire House and all of us have respect for women. We are committed to protecting the dignity of women."

Endowments Minister Shashikala Jolle and Congress member Anjali Nimblkar wanted to speak on the issue, but Kageri refused saying that Ramesh Kumar has already expressed regret and that the issue cannot be dragged on further. However, earlier, Anajali told reporters that the entire House should apologise for the incident. "This is the third time such words are being used in the house. Therefore, it is the right time now for lawmakers to issue a ruling to not use such words in the House," she said and also demanded an apology from Ramesh Kumar.

On Thursday, Ramesh Kumar commented that there is a saying, "When rape is inevitable, lie down and enjoy it" when Speaker Kageri was speaking on legislators demanding more time to speak on the devastation caused by incessant rains and flooding.

Both Houses adjourned after uproar over land row

PRAMODKUMAR VAIDYA
@Belagavi

THE alleged involvement of Urban Development Minister Byrathi Basavaraj and BJP MLC R Shankar in a land grabbing case reverberated in the Assembly on Friday. It eventually led to adjournment of the House till Monday after Congress legislators rushed to the well to protest against the ruling of Speaker Vishweshwara Hegde Kageri against the adjournment motion moved by Opposition leader Siddaramaiah.

Chief Minister Basavaraj Bommai and other members of the ruling BJP opposed the motion. Bommai said that the court has already taken cognizance of the matter and given its directive following a private complaint. "Moreover, when the matter is sub-judice, it cannot not be discussed in the House. Trial of a case cannot be held in the House...it should be in the courts. Also, it may influence the court proceedings," Bommai added.

WINTER SESSION

Right after Question Hour, Siddaramaiah wanted the motion, moved under Rule 60 of the House, to be considered. But the Speaker maintained that the motion cannot be contemplated under the rule it has been moved and said that he was rejecting it. This angered the Congress MLAs and Siddaramaiah demanded that the motion be taken up as done in the cases related to Deputy SP M K Ganapthy and IAS officer D K Ravi in the past.

Siddramaiah said, "The same BJP members, while in the opposition, had moved similar motions and the then Speaker K B Koliwad had accepted them in the aforesaid cases. After that, the then Home Minister K J George had resigned and the government handed over the case to the CBI. After the probe cleared George, he was made a minister again. Similarly, let minister Byrathi Basavaraj resign and return to the Cabinet after he is proved innocent."

Reacting to this, Law and Parliamentary Affairs Minister J Maduswamy said that accepting the motion is unconstitutional and against the rules of the House. "If it was done in the past, it cannot be repeated again... it will set a bad precedent," he said.

However, Siddaramaiah said, "The cases of Ganapthy and Ravi were similar to the present case... they were also sub-judice." Bommai shot back saying that criminal and civil cases cannot be compared. Angered by Bommai's remark, Siddaramaiah charged that the government lacked morality and was not fit to govern the state.

While Kageri reiterated his stand on the adjournment motion, Siddaramaiah and other Congress MLAs entered the well of the House to protest, and the Speaker adjourned the House.

The Council too was adjourned till Monday following the protest by Congress members over the same issue.

Construct quarters for gram panchayat officials: Horatti to govt

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Belagavi

AFTER Legislative Council members on Friday complained about panchayat development officers (PDOs) not residing at their headquarters, Council Chairman Basavaraj Horatti suggested to the government to construct staff quarters for gram panchayat officials.

MLC Dr Sabanna Talavar pointed out that as per the government order in 2016, all PDOs should reside in their workplace, but no one is following it. "With the government giving charge of multiple GPs to a few PDOs, officers are hardly found in their office or at the workplace. In a few cases, PDOs stay in cities, forcing people to run around to get their work done," he added.

Minister for Rural Development and Panchayat Raj KS Eshwarappa said, "I have not received any such complaints. I will take a decision on constructing staff quarters for every gram panchayat after discussing it with the chief minister and finance department. I also believe that the staff quarters will help PDOs stay within GP limits and address grievances of the people."

To a question as to when vacant posts in gram panchayats will be filled, Eshwarappa said, "There is also a shortage of other staff, including village accountants, in many village panchayats in Kalyan Karnataka. We have given powers to the zilla panchayat CEOs and deputy commissioner to appoint people directly to GP posts. We will take steps to fill vacant posts after discussing it with the finance department."

Privilege motion moved against 2 IPS officers

MAHESH M GOUDAR @Belagavi

Congress members of the Legislative Council on Friday moved a privilege motion against two senior IPS officers from Belagavi for preventing them from entering the Suvarna Vidhana Soudha (SVS) on tractors on Thursday. Accepting the privilege motion, Council Chairman Basavaraj Horatti referred it to the Privileges Committee and asked the members to take up the issue after the winter session.

Opposition leader in the Council, S R Patil, came down heavily on senior IPS officers IGP (Northern Range) Satish Kumar and Belagavi City Police Commissioner Dr K Thiyagarajan for preventing them from entering the Soudha even after they received orders from the Home and Law and Parliamentary Affairs ministers.

"The police officers made Congress members wait for at least three hours outside the Soudha. This led to breach of privilege of the legislators. Being IPS officers, they don't have the basic knowledge about the rights of elected members," fumed Patil. "The Chairman is the custodian of legislators when the session is on. These are uncivilised police officers. I demand the government to take stringent against them," he added. JDS MLC Marithibbegowda also demanded stringent action against the police officers.

Sports minister slammed

Heated arguments broke out between Congress MLCs and Youth Empowerment and Sports Minister Dr K C Narayana Gowda and other BJP MLCs. When SR Patil said that they have the right to come to the Soudha in any vehicle, including tractors and bullock carts, Narayangowda asked "Why don't they come to Soudha in tractors daily?"

Irked, Patil said, "A minister who disrespects the vehicles of farmers is unfit to be a minister. It is a black mark on the government." The Congress members jumped into the well demanding an apology from the minister. However, Chairman Horatti and floor leader Kota Srivinivas Poojary pacified the members.

Jalappa, a torch-bearer of backward classes

V VELAYUDHAM @Kolar

VETERAN Congress leader and former Union minister R Laxminarayanappa Jalappa (97) passed away on Friday evening due to age-related ailments. He was admitted at the R L Jalappa Hospital a few days back where he was on life support. The mortal remains were shifted to his native village on Friday night where it will be kept for public viewing on Saturday. The last rites will be held later in the evening, according to family sources. Jalappa is survived by seven children.

Chief Minister Basavaraj Bommai, Health Minister Dr K Sudhakar, Horticulture Minister Munirathna and others paid their last respects at the hospital in Kolar late on Friday. In his condolence message, the CM stated that Jalappa was a tall leader in state and central politics and worked for implementation of development-oriented programmes and added that his contribution in the field of education will always be remembered.

Congress legislature party leader Siddaramaiah said that he has lost a well-wisher and mentor. Jalappa's contribution to society and in the education sector will be remembered forever, he added.

Minister Sudhakar, in his condolence message, said that as a popular leader of the state, Jalappa had worked hard for the welfare of Dalits and Backward Classes and added that his service to agriculture, economic reforms and education was unique.

"After former CM Devaraj Urs, R L Jalappa was the true torchbearer of the backward classes movement. He helped the community leaders like Siddaramaiah reach the CM's post. He was a pillar of the AHINDA movement as well," said Dr C S Dwarakanath, former chairman of the Karnataka Backward Classes Commission and a close associate of Jalappa.

Jalappa started his political career with the Indian National Congress and was a minister in the state cabinet. He was also elected to Parliament thrice from Chikkaballapur constituency and was Union Minister for Textiles. He quit the party along with former Chief Minister Devaraj Urs to form the Karnataka Kranti Ranga which later merged with the Janata Party. Later on, he joined Janata Dal before returning to Congress in 1998.

He had contributed to the development of Kolar, Doddaballapur and Chikkaballapur districts where he established educational institutions. The R L Jalappa Hospital serves people from the three districts and also from neighbouring Andhra Pradesh and Tamil Nadu.

Why anti-conversion Bill, questions Cong

BENGALURU : KPCC working president Dhruvanarayan on Friday questioned the integrity of BJP MLA Gulihatti Shekar for raising the issue of his mother converting into another religion only recently, whereas she had converted some years ago."Since Shekar became a puppet of the RSS, he has been raking up the issue of his mother's conversion now," he alleged. The former Chamarajanagar MP, addressing a joint press conference with former Chitradurga MP B N Chandrappa, observed that the BJP government's plan to bring the anti-conversion Bill, when there is an existing law to check forced conversions, is only to target a particular community. ENS

Tahsildar transferred after 'no forced conversion' report

ENS@Shivamogga

DAYS after Hosadurga tahsildar Thippeswamy submitted a report stating that there was no forced religious conversion of people in some villages of the taluk, contrary to what BJP MLA Gulihatti Shekar had claimed, the government has transferred the official. He is awaiting his next posting.

In September, after Gulihatti Shekar alleged in the Assembly that forced conversions were rampant in his constituency, the Hosadurga taluk administration conducted a survey in some of the villages. He even went on to say that his mother had converted to Christianity forcefully. A few days later, he had said that his mother and nine others in his village had reverted to Hinduism.

Contrary to the MLA's claim, the team, led by Tahsildar Thippeswamy, found that the families had accepted Christianity voluntarily. The tahsildar and a senior police officer conducted a survey of 46 families in Srirampura hobli and another village near Devapura hobli in Hosadurga taluk a few weeks ago. The team had also interacted with 34 families at Maruti Nagar and 12 families in another village near Devapura.

Thippeswamy told TNIE that a new tahsildar has assumed charge. "I conducted the survey after several media houses reported about forced conversion. The district administration directed me to undertake the exercise. In my report, I highlighted what the people told me." Thippeswamy, however, said the report was not the reason for his transfer.

The FKCCI appealed to Union Finance Minister Nirmala Sitharaman to roll back GST on apparel and fabric industries to 5 pc, as the decision to increase it to 12 pc with effect from January 1, 2022, will impact the sector. As part of pre-Budget meetings, Nirmala on Friday held discussions with trade bodies to take suggestions.

AP temple shop auction open to all: Supreme Court

Says religion no ground to prohibit someone from running business

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @New Delhi

THE Supreme Court on Friday permitted people from all religions to participate in the process of auction of leases of shops in the Sri Bhramaramba Mallikarjuna temple and in the shopping complex at Srisailam. A bench headed by Justice DY Chandrachud, said, "We direct that none of the tenants/shop holders shall be excluded from participating in the auction or from the grant of leases solely on the ground of their religion."

The bench was hearing a contempt petition filed in the SLP where the top court in January, 2020, had stayed the September, 2019 judgment of the Andhra Pradesh High Court dismissing a writ petition to declare the 2015 GO issued by the Andhra Pradesh government prohibiting non-Hindus in participation of the tender-cum-auction process of shops or otherwise to obtain lease or licence to carry on business in the immovable property belonging to the temple, as violative of Articles 14 and 15.

The petitioner, Sayyad Jani Basha, sought contempt action against the Principal Secretary of the Department of Revenue (Endowments) of the AP Government, Commissioner of Endowments, and Executive Officer of Sri Bhramaramba Mallikarjuna temple for alleged violation of the stay order passed by the Supreme Court.

"While it may be that within the temple premises, one may not say something which would be offensive to the faith or that there may be no liquor or gambling, it cannot be that you will not sell bamboo, flowers or children's toys if you don't belong to the Hindu religion," remarked the bench.

Post rain, forest dept worried about fires in sanctuaries

BOSKY KHANNA @ Bengaluru

NOT keen on using any new technologies and methods this year, the Karnataka Forest Department has begun forest fire management drills and exercises on the ground. The exercises started soon after the long spell of untimely rain receded. But the worry for the department has only increased.

The prolonged monsoon has increased the lush green cover across the state's forest patches, with tall grass and weeds creating hurdles for ground staffers, who now have to cut them and create forest fire lines.

As fire lines are being prepared in Bandipur and Nagarhole Tiger Reserves, forest fires have also been reported on the fringes of Kudremukh wildlife sanctuary, BRT Tiger Reserve and Kali Tiger Reserve. The geo-locations have been mapped by NASA's Earth Observing System Data and Information System (EOSDIS) and Karnataka State Remote Sensing Applications Centre (KSRSAC).

According to officials, the extension of monsoon gave a month-long breather and delayed the exercise of creating fire lines and de-weeding, but it also worried foresters as the forests have become more vulnerable to fires, especially on the fringes.

"The grass and weeds have grown very tall and spread over large tracts of land, owing to the monsoon showers. Now as the rains have stopped, and the dry season is setting, work on creating fire lines has also started. The task has become challenging and difficult this season. We have decided not to use any new technologies, but strengthen our traditional methods and start vigil at the earliest. Information from KSRSAC is being shared on real time basis to know the occurence of fire," said a senior forest official.

As politicians are suggesting the usage of helicopters and stationing them at Mysuru, forest officials are not keen this time because of the patches of long dry grass. "Instead, we are going to station multiple mini-fire tenders in all tiger reserves and wildlife sanctuaries to ensure there is sufficient water. We have also started the exercise to recruit fire watchers," the official added.

Shivaji statue desecrated in Bengaluru

ENS @Bengaluru

UNIDENTIFIED miscreants disfigured a statue of Chhatrapati Shivaji by painting it black in Sadashivanagar in Bengaluru on the intervening night of Thursday and Friday.

The incident led to tension in Belagavi as members of pro-Hindu organisations protested at Dharmaveer Sambhaji Maharaj Circle. A purported video of miscreants disfiguring the statue too is doing the rounds. DCP (Central) Anucheth MN said a case has been registered at the Sadashivanagar police station.

The prequel to statue desecration is blackening of the face of MES leader Deepak Dalavi in Belagavi on December 13, which was followed by a Kannada flag being burnt by Shiv Sena activists in Kolhapur a couple of days ago. Then, a saffron flag was burnt by some youth in North Karnataka.

ED arrests 2 B'luru residents for marketing fraud

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Bengaluru

THE Directorate of Enforcement (ED) has arrested co-founders and owners of the IndusViva MLM Pyramid Scheme, CA Anzar and Abhilash Thomas, under the Prevention of Money Laundering Act (PMLA), 2002, in a Rs 1,500-crore multi-level marketing scam. Anzarand and Thomas are residents of Bengaluru.

The ED had initiated investigation into the scam, based on an FIR (124/2021) registered by the Gachibowli police station, Cyberabad. "IndusViva is into multi-level marketing, having illegal pyramid-type structure, and is working under the guise of direct selling business. The company engaged a large number of distributors and rigorously marketed its commission schemes under which they promised people quick and easy money by becoming members and then making further enrolments," the ED stated on Friday.

The agency further stated that in order to project their fraud pyramid scheme as a legitimate business, the accused introduced some products which, by their own admission, were valued at only 20 per cent of the sale revenue and in reality, were completely worthless. "The membership fee paid by new clients was used to pay commission to old clients. By giving false promises and inducements, the company had enrolled around 10 lakh members and collected around Rs 1,500 crore since its inception," the ED stated. "Anzar and Thomas floated subsidiary companies in IndusViva group, diverted funds to these entities and also blatantly siphoned off the collected funds into their personal accounts. The diverted funds were used to acquire properties/ assets in the name of individuals and companies," the central agency added.

Anzar and Thomas were produced before the PMLA special court, Rangareddy, and remanded to 14 days in judicial custody from December 16 to 30.

NEED TO DEVELOP HOLISTIC ECOSYSTEM FOR CHIP PRODUCTION

Despite a series of false starts, the government is giving chip production another go. The ₹76,000 crore incentive package, announced this week, hopes to encourage manufacturing of semiconductors and create a viable design and fabrication system for microprocessors—the world’s fourth most traded product used in goods ranging from mobile phones to auto and consumer appliances. The move comes amid a prevailing global chip shortage accentuated by Covid-19 lockdowns. Currently, the most advanced semiconductor manufacturing facilities are located in Taiwan and South Korea, while the top three companies command 80–90% revenue, indicating high geographic concentration. The pandemic only exposed the risks of over-reliance and countries no longer want a situation where another nation controls a valuable resource.

India currently imports all chips and the market is estimated to touch $100 billion by 2025 from $24 billion now. The semiconductor policy not only hopes to reduce import reliance but also aims to take a substantial share in global electronics exports. While the initial package amounts to $10 billion, with the production- and design-linked incentives, capital support and anticipated states’ backing, it’s likely to exceed $30 billion. This appears good, but is less than others like the US, South Korea and China, whose incentives total about $50 billion, $100 billion and $450 billion respectively.

So future chip production, if we are to have it, shouldn’t be a one-trick pony and must develop an ecosystem from design to fabrication, to packing and testing. Given the long gestation periods and rapid technology changes, India must out-strategise on design and functionality as the end product will be out only three-four years from the moment work begins, by which point the prevailing chip shortage would have been resolved, while technology would have advanced further. Designing is India’s advantage and while we leverage people skills, we must improvise research and development—an area that we are lacking in currently. Importantly, WTO-consistent tariff and non-tariff barriers should be resolved to ensure flow of goods, besides ensuring policy stability, without which our chip production prospects will remain empty.

INDIAN CRICKET BOARD AT IT AGAIN

The opaque functioning of the Indian cricket board is once again in the open. When it comes to accountability and transparency, the BCCI is perhaps one of the worst sporting organisations in the country. It can be a money-making behemoth but its communication system seems obsolete. What was appalling is that even India skipper Virat Kohli was kept in the dark about basic details involving him and his captaincy. If the skipper of the team, one of the most skilful batters on the planet, can be kept in the dark, mere mortals can’t expect much. What seemed a routine pre-departure press conference turned out to be a volatile one after Kohli rebutted BCCI president Sourav Ganguly’s claims that the latter spoke with him regarding T20I and ODI captaincy. In other words, what Ganguly claimed was wrong and he never spoke to Kohli about the issue. Ganguly had to face the same inane obfuscation by the BCCI way back in 2005. The former Indian captain, of all people, should know how humiliating it is when a skipper is sacked without consultation. This episode has tarnished the credibility of the board. In the first place, there was no reason for Ganguly to say that he spoke with Kohli about his captaincy or defend the board’s decisions.

This was bound to happen as the BCCI’s functioning has been particularly opaque of late. There is a lack of clarity in the board’s decisions and there is not much explanation about any of them. The press conferences during team announcements have disappeared. The president speaks to just a few people and tells them what he wants to be published or told. The BCCI secretary is even more mute. The only person accessible is the treasurer, who at times is not privy to all matters. This has given rise to speculation and that in turn has led to outrageous rumours. If the BCCI wants to quell such hearsay, it needs to be accountable and transparent.

Poverty brings with it stress and debt. The bidirectional relationship between poverty and mental health has been well-recognised and evidenced

TACKLING MENTAL HEALTH INEQUALITIES IN OUR COUNTRY

DR PRATEEK VARSHNEY
Psychiatrist, NIMHANS, Bengaluru

DR DEBANJAN BANERJEE
Consultant geriatric psychiatrist, Kolkata

SOUMYADIP SINHA

The World Federation for Mental Health (WFMH) themed this year’s Mental Health Day as “Mental health in an unequal world”. Inequalities pertaining to global mental health are being discussed in comfortable armchairs of well-ventilated conference rooms, while at the grassroots level, another adolescent suffocates himself sniffing whitener fluid. A correction is indeed needed. The preamble of mental health needs to be rewritten for the welfare of the people, for the people, by the people.

The inequalities are manifold. Mental health is almost like the Cinderella of health, given step-sisterly treatment, abused and neglected. The glass slipper is unique and not equal to the rough trekking boots of physical health. The delicate curation of issues associated with mental health highlights the first inequality. Mental health is an invisible disability, absent to the naive observer, further compounded by its dynamic nature and impairing abstract domains of social and cognitive capacity.

The second inequality lies in the systematic stigma faced by mental health compared to other non-communicable diseases (NCDs). Mental health is the frog prince of NCDs; even though India was the first country with a dedicated National Mental Health Programme (NMHP), it has always been gauged through the lens of other NCDs like diabetes, cardiovascular diseases, etc., and was in fact deemed unsuccessful, without giving it enough time. The need to understand the complexities of mental health while also including it in primary healthcare packages at par with other NCDs is a delicate balance that will be the kiss of a princess to realise its full potential.

It is not just the identity of mental health that is at stake; the causative models of mental health and their disproportionately higher prevalence in vulnerable groups highlights the third inequality. The three little pigs of mental health—biological, psychological and social factors—are dynamically interacting, which provides the scaffold for mental health. However, the wolf of adversities differentially dismantles the people living in houses of straw and sticks. The bidirectional relationship between poverty and mental health has been well-recognised and evidenced. Poverty brings with it stress, debt and a struggle to sustain; existence is equal to surviving another day. The social causation theory talks about impoverishment as an important determinant of mental illness whilst people living with such problems are often unable to work and thus get stuck in the vicious loop of disease, disadvantage and disability. These vulnerabilities are exponentially enhanced in religious and sexual minorities, which have been further intensified by the ensuing Covid-19 pandemic. These inequalities are existent in terms of visible (poor infrastructure, etc.) and invisible factors (stigma, etc.). Ways of improving access from both the demand and supply side and stressing on the felt needs of individuals despite various barriers is the reinforcement needed for the flailing infrastructure. The Mental Healthcare Act of 2017 is a rights-based model that, under Section 18, guarantees every person the right to access to mental healthcare (free essential psychotropics, ambulance services, etc.) and qualifies an individual for compensation from the state in the absence of the same. It is a step in the right direction.

Not only recovery but also treatment needs to be viewed with a spectral perspective; both should not necessarily aim at an absence of disease as this may increase inequalities between ill and normal when the entire construct of mental illness is itself lying on a spectrum. To mitigate this, we need to focus on universal, selected and indicated prevention. “Prevention is better than cure” is an adage that has stood the test of time, place and person. Increasing health expenditure in general and mental health costs in particular, training community mental health workers in basic counselling skills, imparting awareness and inculcating protective lifestyle habits like yoga, correct nutrition, etc., are the way forward rather than focusing on just those with diagnosed mental illness and reconceptualising it as a family diagnosis rather than an individual one.

The final inequality is in terms of available mental health infrastructure. It is a sad reality that the number of mental health professionals available in the country is far below the required international standards. A majority of these limited professionals are concentrated in urban settings whereas a major chunk of the Indian population resides in rural areas. There is also a clear North-South divide. Many early-career psychiatrists drift to Western countries due to a multitude of reasons. As psychiatry is still not a golden egg speciality like radiology and dermatology, better inclusion in the medical curriculum, more hands-on experiences with psychiatric patients and adopting a community integration model for people with mental illness rather than institutionalisation may open new vistas for medical graduates and reduce inequalities in mental health from a service provider’s stance.

Thus, mental health in the current scenario is not a fairy tale. However, we all can strive to be the fairy godmother and provide the necessary mental health infrastructure to promote mental well-being. We must be the change we want to see and help write the next chapter in the book of mental health in an ideal world.

Thus, a lot needs to be done to turn this grim tale into a Grimm’s fairy tale.

(dr.djan88@gmail.com)

> India also suffers from a lack of mental health professionals. Many early-career psychiatrists drift to the West for a multitude of reasons, one of them being that psychiatry is not a golden egg speciality like radiology

A POLITICAL COELACANTH AT THE CROSSROADS

FAISAL C K
Freelance columnist

The Indian Union Muslim League (IUML) is the coelacanth in Indian politics, a living fossil that has survived the sea changes in the political ecosystem. It lives in the deep south unaffected by the temper and tempest on the surface of the sea. But the time has come for it to face the existential threats and suicidal tendencies. It is losing the ground beneath its feet and fringe elements like the Social Democratic Party of India are eating into the IUML’s clout in Kerala. On the other side, the CPM is making inroads into a once-solid Muslim League vote bank in Malabar. The carefully choreographed secular pretensions of the party are fast imploding due to the words and deeds of its leadership.

A recently held Waqf protection rally in Kozhikode exposed the antediluvian mindset of its leaders. One of its state secretaries called the state PWD minister P A Mohammed Riyas a ‘fornicator’ as he is married to the chief minister’s daughter under the Special Marriage Act. The League leader bluntly called their relationship ‘adultery’ as their marriage is not sanctioned by Islamic law. Another leader K M Shaji stated that those who were leaving the party are distancing themselves from Islam itself. He further candidly said that for the IUML, religion matters more than the livelihood of the common man. These utterances clearly reveal the motivating force of the party is not the Indian Constitution. The cat has jumped out of the IUML’s bag.

The party has been the most powerful communal organisation in Kerala. After the partition of the country, the erstwhile All-India Muslim League functionaries reorganised the League under a fresh nomenclature and agenda. The party held the chief minister’s august post for 53 days in Kerala and it still has a presence in Parliament from Kerala and Tamil Nadu. Also, the IUML belongs to the exclusive club of parties always represented in Parliament since its constitution. The party has a parallel power structure as it holds sway over mosques, madrasas, cooperatives, money from the Gulf, spiritual leaders and the rich business class.

The present dilemma before the IUML is the way forward—secularisation or communalisation of the party agenda. The party at its core is communal—a welfare communalist organisation in professor Bipan Chandra’s terminology. Communal sentiments form the roots of the IUML and the party is trying to capitalise on it. The utterances at the Waqf protection rally have been aimed at this tactic. But such acts demolish the party’s secular pretensions. The party can neither communalise nor secularise its agenda in the present political scenario. This predicament poses an existential threat to the IUML. Secularisation of the agenda would make it lose its communal vote bank to the SDPI while communalisation would isolate it from the mainstream of Kerala politics.

The opposition to gender-neutral uniforms in Kerala government-run schools further exposed the mindset of the party. The Muslim Students Federation, the students’ wing of the IUML, fiercely opposed the move. Fathima Thahiliya, a prominent leader of the MSF, came out heavily against the move. She demanded that the agenda should be equal opportunity and gender justice and not uniformity. She described it as Communist conspiracy against Islamic faith. It’s not astonishing that the Jamaat-e-Islami, the hardcore Islamist organisation, usually distanced from the IUML, is on the same page as the party over this issue.

The party is currently ideologically adrift. The aims and objectives of the IUML as per its constitution inter alia are: to bear true faith and allegiance to the Constitution of India as by law established and to the principles of socialism, secularism and democracy and to uphold the sovereignty, unity and integrity of India. The recent public utterances of its leaders and ultra-orthodox religiosity of the party have gone against the proclaimed manifesto of the IUML. The party has furthermore shrunk into the Malabar region of Kerala. Once the party even had a Cabinet berth in West Bengal—K A Hassanussaman was a minister in the Ajoy Mukherjee government in the 1970s.

The party is facing an acute leadership vacuum too as it has no leader of the stature of Muhammad Ismail, popularly known as Quaid-e-Millat among the League rank and file, or C H Muhammed Koya. The party, dominated by the business class, cannot survive long without political power. Hence, the coelacanth’s survival in the changing socio-political ecology is an important question that matters not only for the party itself, but Kerala politics and society at large.

Punish reckless drivers

The man behind the wheels of a luxury car who caused serial accidents and a death due to reckless driving in Bengaluru was arrested after a delay of five days and also released on bail immediately. It exposes the chinks in our system. Such offences involving reckless and drunken driving with accidents resulting in death(s) should not only be made non-bailable but also carry a minimum punishment. Provisions for enhanced fines introduced recently can hardly meet the challenge.

S V Venkatakrishnan, Bengaluru

Good move, educate girls

The decision of the Union government to raise the marriage age for girls from 18 to 21 is no doubt welcome (Dec 17). But it is imperative that parents educate their girl children well. Whether to work or not after getting educated is their choice. Educated mothers can also help mitigate the problem of child labour in the country.

S Ramakrishnasayee, Chennai

Misadventure ends

This is with reference to E Sreedharan says he’s quitting active politics (Dec 17). A person of his stature joining the electoral politics of Kerala as a BJP candidate was a misadventure, given the sorry state of affairs in that party in the state. What led to the abysmal performance of the BJP in the polls was the all-round inept performance of its state leadership.

Mohan Kunnakat, Vaniamkulam

Bring businesses first

The K-Rail project will drastically reduce commute time between districts, decongest roads from polluting vehicles and create ample job opportunities during the construction period. But Kerala is a consumer state. It has been focusing more attention towards the growth of the IT sector, where flexibility to work from home is provided. Our air quality is way better than that in most states. The manufacturing sector continues to plunge. If air pollution and logistics are not a concern, what exactly is SilverLine addressing? Or is it planning for the future? Then the focus should first be on the ease of doing business. We’ve already lost a Kitex.

Sai Srinath Rajendran, Kozhikode

Tribal quota in pvt schools

This is with reference to the editorial Education a mirage for tribal women (Dec 17). The poor literacy rate among tribal women across India can be addressed if the government has a concrete plan such as establishing at least one middle school in areas where tribal villages are present. The government should also fix a compulsory quota for ST children in private schools in and around tribal areas, especially in residential institutions located in hill areas.

S Anantharaj Abraham, Chennai

Salvage reputation

Ministers are usually careful while speaking to the press but when their frustration reaches a crescendo, they feel hounded and go berserk as happened in the case of MoS for Home Ajay Mishra. What is important here is not who (read Rahul Gandhi) is asking for his resignation but saving the battered image of the government. It is precisely to salvage its sagging reputation that the government has withdrawn the farm laws.

D Nagarjuna, Hyderabad

Recognise Kanchi heritage

This is with reference to Wanted: Heritage status for Kanchipuram (Dec 17). The author has made a strong case for including the temple city in the list of world heritage sites. Apart from the well-known temples, Kanchi is also noted for several smaller shrines, each with its rich history and architecture. One such in the heart of the city is the rare temple dedicated to Chitragupta, who is believed to keep an account of the deeds of one and all in the court of Yama.

N Rama Rao, Chennai

Federal front futile

The Telangana chief minister is making a futile attempt to form a third front without the Congress to fight the BJP in the next general elections. The rise of the BJP in Telangana appears to be giving sleepless nights to the pink party, which was numero uno in the state since its formation without anyone to challenge it.

AstraZeneca's therapy may be effective against Omicron: Study

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @New Delhi

PHARMACEUTICAL major AstraZeneca on Friday said that a pre-clinical study has concluded that its antibody combination Evusheld retained neutralising activity against the Omicron variant.

The company is in the process of applying in India for the regulatory approval of the drug. Importantly, the latest study was done independently by researchers at the US Food and Drug Administration, Center for Biologics Evaluation and Research, and the work was supported by US government research funds.

Evusheld (Tixagevimab along with Cilgavimab), a long-acting antibody combination for the prevention of Covid, recently became the first drug to receive emergency use authorisation in the US as a prophylaxis treatment for coronavirus infections. It was specifically indicated for cancer and immune-suppressed patients.

Sharing comments on the latest findings, its executive vice-president Mene Pangalos said that by combining two potent antibodies with different and complementary activities against the virus, Evusheld was designed to evade potential resistance with the emergence of new SARS-CoV-2 variants.

Evusheld has also received authorisations in other countries, the pharma major said, adding that it is now working with regulators on applications for the use of Evusheld in treating Covid.

As Omicron was not in circulation during the Evusheld clinical trials, the firm is continuing to collect data to better understand the implications of this observation in clinical practice.

"Additional analyses to evaluate Evusheld against the Omicron variant are being conducted by AstraZeneca and third-party laboratories, with data anticipated very soon," it said.

Ministers manage to introduce three bills amid the Opposition protests in Lok Sabha

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ New Delhi

Suspended Rajya Sabha MPs outside Parliament House in New Delhi on Friday | PTI

THE Lok Sabha proceedings was washed away yet again on Friday in the face of disruptions by the Opposition that remained unmoved in its demand of removal of Union minister Ajay Mishra Teni.

After being first adjourned till 2 PM, the House again faced pandemonium when it resumed business. The ministers were able to introduce three legislative bills — The National Anti-Doping Bill, 2021, The Wildlife (Protection) Amendment Bill, 2021, and The Chartered Accountants, the Cost and Works Accountants and the Company Secretaries (Amendment) Bill, 2021 — amid the din.

With the Winter Session concluding on December 23, the government has just three days to push its heavy legislative agenda in the House.

Earlier, the Lower House couldn't take up the Question Hour as the Opposition MPs trooped into the well of the House right at the start of the day's session. Lok Sabha Speaker Om Birla sought to pacify the agitating members, but all the efforts went fruitless as the Opposition MPs remained in the well raising slogans and holding placards.

The Lok Sabha hasn't yet concluded discussion on the demand for additional grants appropriation bill. The House has also not taken up the short duration discussion on the situations arising out of the price rise moved by Congress leader Adhir Ranjan Chowdhury under Rule 193, which doesn't entail voting in the House.

The private members' business, which is the norm in the second half of Fridays, was also affected.

Informal meet with PMO: EC

New Delhi: Chief Election Commissioner Sushil Chandra and two fellow commissioners held an "informal interaction" with the PMO to bridge gaps in understanding of key electoral reforms between the poll panel and the Law Ministry, with EC sources insisting that no impropriety was involved in doing so. The informal interaction resulted in the Cabinet clearing electoral reforms that the EC was insisting be brought in the ongoing Winter Session of Parliament, they added.

Support to bank staff

New Delhi: A group of opposition MPs put up a joint protest on Friday against the introduction of Bank Laws (Amendment) Bill, the privatisation and the merger plan of the public sector banks. The protest lasted for half an hour. "We have full solidarity to over 9 lakh of bankers and employees of various nationalized banks, who were on a two-day nationwide strike against the government's move for privatization and the merger plans of banks," they said.

Teni skips Modi's meeting with BJP MPs

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ New Delhi

BELEAGUERED Union minister Ajay Mishra Teni on Friday was absent at a meeting of the BJP MPs from Uttar Pradesh with Prime Minister Narendra Modi on Friday morning.

About three dozen BJP MPs on Friday called on the PM over breakfast as part of an exercise in which Modi meets the Parliamentarians from the party ranks over breakfast. It wasn't immediately known whether Teni was asked to keep away from the meeting.

The last leg of the Winter session of Parliament remains paralysed over the demand of the Opposition for the resignation of Teni over the findings of the SIT, which is probing the Lakhimpur Kheri incident.

The PM is learnt to have asked the BJP MPs to spend time in their constituencies and promote various initiatives, including sports, as part of the ongoing Azadi ka Amrit Mahotsav to commemorate the 75th year of Independence.

Modi has, so far, met the BJP MPs from Northeastern and southern states in batches.

CONGRESS MUST SACK RAMESH, SAYS SHOBHA

UNION Minister for State for Agriculture Shobha Karandlaje said, "It is sickening to learn the mindset of a six-time legislator. Ramesh Kumar shouldn't be allowed to enter Suvarna Soudha. He has denigrated the sanctity of the Temple of Democracy by trivialising rape. He must be thrown out of the party and Assembly for his insensitive remarks."

Even at the Assembly, which is in session in Belagavi, many leaders, including those from Congress, criticised his comments. State Congress president DK Shivakumar said, "Congress condemns the words spoken by one of our own legislators in the Karnataka Assembly. The insensitive remarks against women are contrary to the values of gender equality that Congress champions. While we note that the legislator has tendered an apology, the incident in the Assembly is a sign that all of us men in politics need to do better to shed our inherent regressive attitudes towards women."

In New Delhi, former Union Minister and BJP MP Rajyavardhan Rathore said the remarks are highly condemnable. But he made light of the incident of Speaker Vishweshwar Hegde Kageri laughing when the controversial remarks were made, saying that one shouldn't assume things.

However, BJP MP Aparajita Sarangi expressed sadness over the Speaker not doing anything when the remarks were made.

Defence minister Rajath Singh with his French counterpart Florence Parly upon her arrival for a joint military guard of honour on Friday | SHEKHAR YADAV

France offers more Rafale jets, defence manufacturing help

MAYANK SINGH @ New Delhi

THE recent developments in Afghanistan, cross-border terrorism, India's border row with China and bilateral strategic ties were among a wide range of issues discussed during the third annual Defence Dialogue between Defence Minister Rajnath Singh and his French counterpart Florence Parly on Friday.

"The ministers reviewed the existing military-to-military cooperation, which has increased in spite of pandemic challenges. They discussed ways to increase defence cooperation in all domains," the Ministry of Defence said.

A major highlight of the talks was an "in-depth" discussion on how French defence majors can collaborate with Indian firms or set up production facilities on their own in India, sources said.

Ahead of the talks, Parly said France was ready to provide additional Rafale jets to India and was fully committed to supporting the 'Make in India' initiative and further integrating the Indian manufacturers into its global supply chains.

The MoD statement said the two dignitaries expressed commitment to work together to enhance cooperation in bilateral, regional and multilateral forums. France is the current chair of Indian Ocean Naval Symposium and will take over the presidency of the European Union from January 1, 2022. The two ministers decided to work closely on a number of issues during the French presidency.

Describing the talks as "excellent", Singh said India-France strategic partnership is more relevant today than ever.

Giving a talk at Aspen Centre later, the French minister rooted for multilateralism and rules-based international order. Speaking about the Indo-Pacific, she said, "We want to preserve the Indo-Pacific as an open and inclusive area. It must be free from any coercion and based on compliance with international law and multilateralism. To us, the Indo-Pacific is not an artificial juxtaposition of the Indian and Pacific oceans."

Earlier, Parly called on PM Narendra Modi and met NSA Ajit Doval.

Govt made some wrong decisions but intent never wrong: Shah

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ New Delhi

Union Home Minister Amit Shah at the FICCI event on Friday | PARVEEN NEGI

SOME decisions made by the BJP-led central government might have been wrong but no questions could be raised about its intention, Union Home Minister Amit Shah asserted on Friday.

Addressing the annual general meeting of the Federation of Indian Chambers of Commerce and Industry (FICCI), Shah said no charges of corruption were levelled against the government in the past seven years and even critics would agree that India has witnessed a lot of changes since the BJP came to power in 2014.

"There could have been some wrong decisions but no one can say that our intention was wrong," he asserted.

Incidentally, the land acquisition ordinance and the demonetisation move continue to divide public opinion over the years.

Shah, also the union minister of cooperation, said that Prime Minister Narendra Modi reinstated people's faith in a multi-party democratic system. "People had started losing faith in democracy when the Modi government took over the reins. The country was wondering if our multi-party democratic system was failing. Biggest achievement of our government is that PM Modi strengthened public faith in our multi-party democratic system," he said, taking a dig at the erstwhile UPA dispensation.

India is likely to become the fastest-growing economy in the world in the current fiscal, he said.

"We are reaching the pre-COVID levels. July to September GDP number has been at 8.4 per cent and I think in 2021-22, India is likely to become the fastest-growing economy in the world. I won't be surprised if our economic growth accelerates to double-digit," Shah said, adding that the inflation is within the "targeted range" of 4-6% as set by the government.

Several policy decisions made by the government during the pandemic will leave a long-lasting positive impact on India's growth and development, he claimed.

SC halts Bengal inquiry panel on Pegasus

NEW DELHI: The Supreme Court on Friday stayed all further proceedings before the panel constituted by the Bengal government to probe allegations of unauthorised surveillance using Pegasus.

A bench headed by Chief Justice N V Ramana also allowed the petitioner — NGO Global Village Foundation — the permission to make the Commission a party in the proceedings. It issued notice to the Commission as well and stayed the proceedings.

The CJI asked senior advocate Abhishek Singhvi how the panel had started an enquiry despite an earlier assurance given to the court. "What is this? Last time you gave an undertaking, but again you started enquiry?"

Singhvi said he had conveyed the court's directions to the panel, adding that the restraint was till the top court passed its order after which the panel began its work. "I had conveyed the restraint but the Commission is not controlled by me."

On October 27, the SC had set up a three-member technical panel to probe the allegations surrounding Pegasus. ENS

Wilson's case needs court scutiny: Activists

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ New Delhi

COURTS must take cognisance of the latest analysis by an external forensics firm that the phone of activist Rona Wilson, arrested in the Elgar Parishad case, was "infiltrated" with Pegasus before his arrest, two senior activists-cum-advocates said.

According to the report by a global publication, two backups of an iPhone of Wilson had digital traces showing infection by Pegasus.

"For the first time, the totally illegal practices of investigation agencies to dump incriminating material on a computer has been exposed. After this case, courts will probably be more attentive to dumping of material on private persons," senior advocate Colin Gonsalves said.

He added that the court, in light of the new revelations, will now "become more conscious of what investigating agencies are up to." He termed the alleged act of police as "pure criminality" and called for the investigating agency to be prosecuted for "creating false evidence in a case which carries a death sentence."

Senior advocate Rebecca John termed the developments "extremely worrying". She said courts should take cognizance of the new revelations "because one cannot be dependent on states because people's liberty is at stake." She said if it's true that "Pegasus and its ilk is being used to fabricate evidence and put on people's equipment, the court must order an inquiry. This is very serious…far more serious than even snooping if it's true." The credibility of the constitutional process is at stake, she said.

NIA says arrest not illegal

An NIA official said that the material on the basis of which Wilson was arrested is "based on prosecutable evidence". On the new forensic findings, the official said that Indian courts only rely on findings of labs that are recognised by government. Wilson had claimed that the malware was planted on his laptop through an email on June 13, 2016.

Captain Amarinder Singh hugs Union Minister Gajendra Singh Shekhawat | TWITTER

FORMER Punjab chief minister Captain Amarinder Singh on Friday formally announced an alliance with the BJP for the upcoming Assembly elections in the state. Singh called on BJP election in-charge for Punjab and Union Minister Gajendra Singh Shekhawat to formally stitch the alliance between his newly-floated Punjab Lok Congress and the saffron party.

Shekhawat told reporters the alliance between the two parties has been finalised. "We had held seven rounds of discussions. We will take up seat adjustments later," said the BJP leader.

The former Congress veteran meanwhile stated that the two parties will hold discussions to identify seats for each party, with winnability factor being the sole consideration.

The BJP-Punjab Lok Congress front will be the fourth contestant in the fray for the February elections, with the incumbent Congress, Aam Admi Party (AAP), and the Shiromani Akali Dal (SAD) in alliance with the Bahujan Samajwadi Party (BSP) being the three others.

Singh floated his own party after quitting the Congress and he appears to have prevailed upon the BJP to cede to most of the demands of the agitating farmers' unions before formally announcing alliance with the saffron outfit.

Pollitical Pulse

The BJP is currently on a spree to attract influencers in Punjab to shore up its electoral chances in the state. The saffron party had previously been a junior partner of the Akali Dal. With its support base largely in urban areas, the BJP will be leaning on the former Punjab chief minister to work on the Jat Sikh and Hindu vote consolidation. The two parties will also be hoping to gain from the split of vote base in the quadrangular Assembly elections.

Sidhu promises right to job

Chandigarh: Punjab Congress president Navjot Singh Sidhu on Friday promised to launch an urban employment guarantee scheme to provide the "right to jobs to urban labour" in the state if his party returns to power after the upcoming Assembly elections. This will be on the lines of the Mahatma Gandhi National Rural Employment Guarantee Scheme (MGNREGS), a centrally sponsored scheme, the Congress leader said. "As urban poverty in Punjab is double the rural poverty, the employment guarantee scheme would also cover unskilled labour. Besides giving right to employment, we will also fix the daily wage and regulate work hours," he said. Sidhu termed his "revolutionary" idea as the USP (unique selling proposition) of his "Punjab model" of governance and said this would change the lives of the urban poor.

Amit Shah attributes 2019 election victory to alliance with NISHAD

NAMITA BAJPAI @Lucknow

WITH an eye on non-Yadav votes to secure more than 300 seats in the 2022 UP Assembly polls, the ruling BJP's top brass, including Union Home Minister Amit Shah and Union Education and Skill Development Minister Dharmendra Pradhan, shared the stage with Sanjay Nishad, president of the Nirbal Indian Shoshit Hamara Aam Dal (NISHAD), at a huge rally of Nishads (fishermen) in Lucknow on Friday.

Seeking the support of Nishads, who belong to the Most Backward Castes (MBCs) in UP and depend mostly on rivers and water bodies for their livelihood, Shah attributed the BJP's victory in the 2019 Lok Sabha elections to its alliance with the NISHAD party.

The Nishads have a sizeable presence in 152 of the 403 Assembly seats, especially in Purvanchal. At the Lucknow rally, Shah said the BJP will address all issues concerning the Nishad community. "This would also include the long-pending demand of reservation under the SC category."

Lashing out at the Opposition, Shah said they "worked only for their own castes", while the BJP worked for all. "The BJP government stood solidly for the rights and welfare of Nishad and other backward class communities, which always got a raw deal under previous governments," he said, adding that the BJP-NISHAD alliance will wipe out Samajwadi Party, BSP and Congress from UP.

Shah also invoked Lord Ram and his relationship with the Nishad community. "They (Nishads) had offered Lord Ram their kingdom of Shringverpur during his 14-year exile," he said.

Modi to visit UP 4 times in next 10 days

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Lucknow

THE significance of upcoming Uttar Pradesh Assembly polls for the ruling BJP can be gauged from the fact that Prime Minister Narendra Modi has already paid three visits to the poll-bound state so far in this month and is set to make four more visits in the next 10 days for official functions. The PM's UP visits are closely scheduled ahead of the Election Commission of India (ECI) notifying the Assembly polls.

If the sources are to be believed, the ECI may notify Assembly polls in five states any time early next month and in UP, the exercise may be held in six-seven phases.

The PM is leaving no stone unturned towards the BJP's quest to regain power in UP. He will be in Shahjahanpur on December 18 to lay foundation stone of the Ganga Expressway from Meerut to Prayagraj followed by a visit to Prayagraj on December 21 to interact with nearly two lakh women employees.

After inaugurating the first phase of Kashi Vishwanath Corridor in Varanasi on December 13, the PM will again be visiting his constituency on December 23 to hold a seminar with farmers. As per his itinerary, the PM would visit Kanpur on December 28 to inaugurate the Kanpur Metro project and participate in IIT-Kanpur convocation.

In November as well the PM had visited the state multiple times.

Protests demanding AFSPA repeal reach Nagaland's capital

PRASANTA MAZUMDAR @Guwahati

THE Nagas on Friday took out a massive rally in Kohima to press for justice to the civilians killed in a botched-up army operation, repeal of the Armed Forces (Special Powers) Act (AFSPA) and an early solution to the vexed "Naga problem".

The rally was organised by the Naga Students' Federation (NSF) and attended by people from all walks of life. In a show of unity, similar rallies were organised in some Naga-majority districts of Manipur.

In a memorandum to Prime Minister Narendra Modi, the NSF demanded that the Centre set up a court-monitored committee headed by a retired Supreme Court or high court judge to ensure that the recent incidents at Oting, which left 13 civilians dead, were probed in a fair and impartial manner.

The students' body reiterated its stand that the Special Investigation Team, set up by the state government, cannot give justice to the slain civilians who were victims of the "willful acts of the Indian armed forces under the protection of the repressive AFSPA".

It said the Government of India must admit to the utter failure of its intelligence agencies and apologise publicly to the Nagas "for furthering the subjugation of the Nagas through its policy of militarisation".

"Justice should be delivered immediately to the victims of the gruesome Oting incident and in all the pending cases related to excesses committed by the Indian armed forces," it said.

The NSF said there was no rationale as to why the entire "Naga homeland within India" should be tagged as "disturbed areas".

"The prevailing law and order situation in the Naga-inhabited areas does not merit the Act which has only been used as a tool for psychological warfare against the Naga people," the memorandum reads.

'Needs unique solution to the problem'

Pointing out the official recognition of the unique history of the Nagas by the Centre, the Naga Students' Federation urged Modi to not compare the issue to any other political issues and that the promise of a unique solution is brought forth at the earliest

At mayors' meet, Modi pitches for 'Varanasi model' of development

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Lucknow

PRIME Minister Narendra Modi on Friday pitched for the development model of Varanasi while addressing the All India Mayors' Conference, themed 'New Urban India', in Varanasi via video link. As many as 120 mayors from various states participated in the conference during which the PM said development works in Varanasi could play a roadmap for the entire country.

Laying stress on keeping the traditional ethos of cities intact, the PM said majority of Indian cities had rich traditional heritage and followed the traditional path of development.

Modi cited the example of Varanasi, his parliamentary constituency, which has undergone a massive makeover in the last couple of years. The PM told the mayors that no stone should be left unturned to ensure development of their cities. "We have to believe in evolution. India does not need revolution today. We don't need to demolish our heritage buildings and reconstruct them, rather we need to rejuvenate and revive them," he said.

Earlier in the day, taking the BJP election campaign forward, the PM held a crucial but informal meeting with around 40 party MPs from UP over breakfast. Sources claimed the discussions were largely apolitical in nature. Not all the MPs from the state were present. Most of them were Lok Sabha members but Minister of State for Home Ajay Mishra Teni was not among the attendees, they said.

Nitish on 'social reform' tour in Bihar

RAMASHANKAR @Patna

BIHAR Chief Minister Nitish Kumar is all set to don the avatar of a social reformer. He will embark on a 'Samaj Sudhar Yatra' (social reforms tour) on December 22. This will be his 12th statewide tour since he came to power the first time in November 2005.

Nitish will start his yatra from East Champaran district, the 'karmabhumi' of Mahatma Gandhi. He will convince people about the consequences of social evils such as prohibition, dowry, child marriage etc. during the 12-day yatra. He will exhort women to cooperate with the government agencies in implementation of the prohibition law more effectively. The state has seen a spate of hooch tragedies in recent months despite a stringent prohibition law in force, which earned his government much flak.

In addition, the CM will assess various development works undertaken by his government. The yatra will conclude on January 15.

Janata Dal-United spokesperson Arvind Nishad said, "The CM's visit will accelerate the development works in the districts. Such yatras have positive impact on the people who will get the opportunity to interact with the CM directly and tell about pending projects."

The yatra comes as a time when Nitish has raised the pitch again for 'special status' to Bihar, an issue on which he is not on the same page with ally BJP. Sources said Nitish will also galvanise public opinion on this issue during the yatra.

Land use switch from farming permitted

Over two years after Article 370 revocation, the J&K administration headed by Lieutenant Governor Manoj Sinha has permitted conversion of agricultural land for non-agricultural purposes. The regulations framed by the board of revenue were necessitated after the legislative changes in the land revenue act post-reorganisation of the erstwhile state, said an official. Under the new regulations, the district collector has been empowered to grant permission to change in land use from agricultural to non-agricultural purposes in accordance with the procedure to be notified by the board of revenue.

Over 3.25 lakh visitors have already visited the site in the last six weeks.

'IS has 66 Indian-origin fighters'

WASHINGTON

THERE were 66 known Indian-origin fighters affiliated with the global terrorist group Islamic State, the latest US State Department report on terrorism has said as it commended the country's counterterrorism forces, including the NIA, for actively detecting and disrupting transnational and regional terror forces.

The report said that there were 66 known Indian-origin fighters affiliated with ISIS, as of November. No Foreign Terrorist Fighters (FTFs) were repatriated to India during 2020, it said.

The State Department also noted that terror outfits such as the Lashkar-e-Taiba, Jaish-e-Mohammed, Hizbul Mujahideen, ISIS and Al-Qaeeda continue to be active in the country, with Jammu and Kashmir, Northeast and Maoist-hit central regions being hit by terror activities.

The report credited the government of India for making significant efforts to detect and disrupt operations of major terrorist organisations within its borders. However, threats persist, the report noted.

Tory's bypoll defeat adds to Boris' woes

Loss of stronghold seat mounts pressure on scandal-hit leader

LONDON

Helen Morgan of the Liberal Democrats makes a speech after being declared the winner in the North Shropshire by-election on Friday | AP

BRITISH Prime Minister Boris Johnson on Friday faced questions about his leadership after weeks of controversy culminated in a crushing by-election defeat in a constituency never previously lost by his party.

His ruling Tories had held the seat in North Shropshire, central England, by a massive majority just two years ago, but saw that wiped out by the Liberal Democrats in a vote on Thursday, a historic defeat set to intensify the mutinous mood among Conservative MPs. Johnson, 57, was already reeling from a series of scandals and setbacks and around 100 of his lawmakers rebelled in parliament Tuesday against the government's introduction of vaccine passes for large events.

The UK leader's authority has also been hit repeatedly in recent weeks by claims of corruption and reports that he and his staff broke coronavirus restrictions last Christmas, while a new surge in Omicron cases have added to a sense of crisis. The government reported nearly 89,000 new infections Thursday, the second consecutive record daily tally. The Tories lose the safe rural seat, won by 23,000 votes in 2019, by almost 6,000 votes, as the Lib Dems mustered a swing of 34 percentage points — the seventh biggest in by-election history.

"The people of North Shropshire have spoken on behalf of the British people," winning candidate Helen Morgan said in her victory speech. "They have said loudly and clearly: 'Boris Johnson, the party is over'."

"Your government, run on lies and bluster, will be held accountable. It will be scrutinised, it will be challenged and it can and will be defeated."

The shattering defeat drew an immediate backlash from some Tory MPs and predictions that letters of no-confidence in their leader could be dispatched to trigger an internal party vote to remove him. AFP

Kovind opens renovated Kali Mandir in Dhaka destroyed by Pak in 1971

DHAKA

PRESIDENT Ram Nath Kovind on Friday inaugurated the renovated Sri Ramna Kali Mandir here, 50 years after it was destroyed by the Pakistani forces in 1971, and described the historic temple as the symbol of the cultural and spiritual bonding among the people of India and Bangladesh.

President Kovind is in Bangladesh on his maiden state visit at the invitation of his counterpart M Abdul Hamid to attend the golden jubilee celebrations of Bangladesh's independence from Pakistan in the 1971 Liberation War.

President Ram Nath Kovind inaugurates the renovated Ramna Kali Mandir

The President and First Lady Savita Kovind offered prayers at the renovated temple.

"The Indian president opened the extended part of the Kali temple, offered special prayers and exchanged greetings with those involved in running the temple," a spokesman of the temple said.

"President Kovind and his family members offered an exclusive special prayer inside the newly-inaugurated part of the temple," a Hindu priest familiar with the visit said.

The temple, located at the heart of the capital city Dhaka, was demolished as the Pakistani troops launched 'Operation Searchlight' to attack unarmed Bengalis, targeting the resistance movement in the country. They set on fire several important installations, including the Ramna Kali Mandir on the night of March 25, 1971 and subsequent days.

Addressing the Indian community after inaugurating the temple, Kovind said that he sees it as 'a blessing from Maa Kali'.

Markets tumble over virus, inflation woes

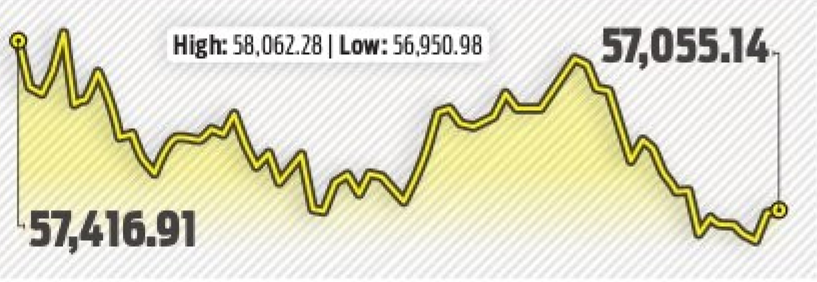
Rising Omicron cases in the country and US Fed's signal of three rate hikes in 2022 to check inflation hit sentiment

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU
@ New Delhi

BEARS took full control of Dalal Street as the country's benchmark equity indices — BSE Sensex and NSE Nifty — fell over 1.5% on Friday. Concerns about rising inflation and the Omicron spooked investors as the Bank of England became the first major central bank to hike key rates.

The Bank of England's decision to hike interest rates from 0.10% to 0.25% came days after the US Federal Reserve spoke of increasing pace of tapering from $15bn/month to $30bn/month and signalled rate hikes for the next three years. The Fed may now go for three rate hikes now in 2022 as compared to one hike projected earlier. Most of these steps are taken to control rising inflation which now stands at decade high levels at major economies.

SENSEX INTRADAY MOVEMENT ON DECEMBER 17



Back at home, the RBI kept all key policy rates on hold at the recently concluded monetary policy meeting and gave no strong signals of any timelines on a possible reverse repo rate hike. However, the country's largest public sector bank- SBI- on Friday hiked its base interest rate by 0.10%.

The other major concern for the market is the spread of Omicron as total cases infected with this Covid variant has surpassed the 100-mark.

Shibani Kurian, Senior EVP & Head- Equity Research, Kotak Mahindra Asset Management Company, said, "Emergence of a new Covid-19 variant- Omicron, inflation concerns and hawkish turn of global central bankers has led to an increase in volatility in equity markets worldwide including India. With inflation increasing in countries across the world, all eyes are on central bankers and the pace of liquidity normalisation adopted by them."

Coming to Fridays' fall, Sensex fell 889 points to close the session at 57,011 while NSE Nifty 50 closed 263 points lower to settle at 16,985.

Barring the Nifty IT, all of NSE's sectoral gauges finished the day deep in the red. IT stocks gained after Accenture Plc forecasted better-than-expected second-quarter revenue and raised its annual business outlook.

Indiabulls Housing tanks as promoter trims stake

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU
@ New Delhi

SHARES of the mortgage lender Indiabulls Housing Finance fell over 8% to ₹233 on Friday after tanking 15% intraday to ₹215 on the National Stock Exchange. On BSE, the stock declined 8.34% to ₹233.10.

This decline came after the company's main promoter Sameer Gehlaut sold an 11.9% stake in the firm, saying that he always wanted it to be a fully professionally managed entity.

Gehlaut sold his stake through open market deals to over 10 entities, and the combined value of the transactions approximated to ₹1,450 crore.

Marquee investors such as the Abu Dhabi Investment Authority, Invesco Mutual Fund and some funds of Morgan Stanley and HSBC, among others are said to have purchased the shares.

Add to it, Gehlaut will also give up his board seat before the end of financial year 2022. He, however, has decided to hold the remaining 9.8% stake, saying that he wants to participate in the future growth story of the company.

Going forward, Gehlaut said that he remains very excited for the growth prospects of Dhani Services (a company that was demerged from Indiabulls Housing) where as the CEO, he is very focused on building a world class fintech and digihealth platform.

Gehlaut held a total of 21.69% stake in the company in his personal capacity and through his promoter companies before selling his stake on Thursday.

ONLINE BROKERS IN OFFSHORE TRADING FACE BAN

Chinese regulators are planning to ban online brokerages such as Futu Holdings Ltd and UP Fintech Holding Ltd from offering offshore trading services to mainland clients due to concern about data security and capital outflows, people with knowledge of the matter said. The Nasdaq-listed Chinese firms are two of the biggest players in the sector and a ban would block millions of retail investors in mainland China from trading securities easily in markets such as the US and Hong Kong. Firms are likely to be notified of a ban in "the coming months", said one of four sources who spoke with Reuters. All sources declined to be identified as they were not authorised to speak to media. Futu and UP Fintech, in business since 2011 and 2014 respectively, allow mainland clients to open offshore accounts using personal information such as ID cards, bank cards and tax records. Both are registered with the Securities and Futures Commission in Hong Kong but that permit does not extend to the mainland. No mainland licence exists for online brokerages specialising in cross-border trades, sources said.

CHINA

YUAN FLAT AS BEIJING SEEKS TO TAME ITS RISE

The Chinese yuan weakened slightly against the dollar on Friday, and was on track to end the week little changed, after Beijing took steps to rein in appreciation expectations. Meanwhile, a busy week for major central banks heralded the beginning of the end pandemic-era stimulus and threatens to put downward pressure on the Chinese currency. The yuan was changing hands at 6.3699 per dollar at midday, 9 pips weaker from the previous late session close, after the People's Bank of China (PBOC) set a slightly lower midpoint. China has taken several measures over the past weeks to tame the yuan's rapid rise, which last week took the currency to the highest level against the greenback in 3-1/2 years. The central bank had announced a hike in the foreign exchange reserve requirement ratio, which took effect this week. And on Wednesday, regulators granted fresh quotas worth $3.5 billion under a key outbound investment scheme. In addition, the PBOC in November recorded its biggest net purchase of foreign exchange in more than six years, a move that could help stem yuan's rise. Traders expect volatility to be low in yuan trading throughout the rest of the year.

JAPAN

BOJ DIALS BACK EMERGENCY PANDEMIC FUNDING

The Bank of Japan on Friday dialled back emergency pandemic funding but maintained ultra-loose policy and extended financial relief for small firms, cementing expectations it will remain among the most dovish central banks for the foreseeable future. BOJ Governor Haruhiko Kuroda said borrowing costs will remain low in Japan even as other central banks hike interest rates, stressing the roll-back of emergency funding was in no way a prelude to a full-blown withdrawal of monetary stimulus. The BOJ's decision came hours after Britain became the first G7 economy to raise rates since the onset of the pandemic. The US Fed and the European Central Bank also moved towards rolling back crisis-era stimulus, though at varying degrees reflecting their differing views on the surge in global inflation. Fears over the recent rapid spread of the Omicron variant of the coronavirus have also complicated the challenge for policymakers, whose monetary plans for a post-pandemic economic revival have been disturbed. In a widely expected decision, the BOJ maintained its short-term rate target at -0.1% and that for 10-year bond yields around 0%.

AS the government is in the process of drafting the Cryptocureency Bill, the Central Board of Reserve Bank on Friday on Monday discussed various aspects related to Central Bank Digital Currency and private cryptocurrencies

"The Board also discussed various aspects relating to Central Bank Digital Currency and Private Crypto Currencies," The RBI said in a statement after the board meeting.

According to the sources, while the discussion was largely directed towards implementation strategy for the introduction of Central Bank Digital Currency (CBDC), board members shared their reservations against the private Crypto.

RBI governor Shaktikanta Das had expressed his reservation against Cryptocurrency on many occasions, in strong words.

The government has proposed to bring in legislation on cryptocurrencies. It has listed Cryptocurrency and Regulation of Official Digital Currency Bill, 2021, for consideration in the ongoing Winter Session of Parliament. The RBI has been examining use cases and working out a phased implementation strategy for the introduction of Central Bank Digital Currency (CBDC) with little or no disruption. CBDC is introduced by a central bank. However, sources said that it may not be taken up during the session scheduled to end next week. The Board also reviewed the current domestic and global economic situation, evolving challenges and remedial measures, as cases of Omicron is rising globally.

Byju's planning secondary listing in India?

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU
@ Bengaluru

EDTECH giant Byju's, which is valued at $21 billion, is mulling a dual listing. Apart from listing in the US through the special purpose acquisition company (SPAC) route, the company also plans an IPO in the Indian market.

Sources familiar with the development confirmed that the company is considering a secondary listing in 2022. "But nothing has been finalised yet," sources said.

SPAC or a blank-cheque is quite popular in the US. A SPAC is created to pool funds for a merger or acquisition opportunity.

Recently, renewable energy firm ReNew Power got listed on the Nasdaq through the SPAC route. Byju's is following the same route and has plans to merge with Churchill Capital's SPAC. Michael Klein is the founder of Churchill Capital and he is also the founder and managing partner of M. Klein and Company, a global strategic advisory firm. Churchill Capital has offered to invest $4 billion, thereby taking Byju's valuation over $48 billion.

Many companies such as Paytm, Nykaa and Zomato have gone public in 2021. For long, Byju's has been talking about going public.

Byju's is backed by Tiger Global, Chan-Zuckerbeg Iniitiative (CZI), Sequoia Capital India, Bond, Silver Lake, BlackRock, Tencent and Naspers Ventures, among others. Founded in 2011 by Byju Raveendran, the firm became the first Asian company to receive investment from CZI in 2016. The edtech firm has gained significantly during Covid-19 pandemic with the shift to online education.

Its revenues in 2019-20 stood at over ₹2,300 crore. Its recent acquisition was coding platform Tynker.

Jet ready to resume ops in '22, asks NCLT to fast-track resolution

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU
@ New Delhi

GROUNDED airline Jet Airways will resume its operations "at the earliest" in 2022 with six narrow body aircraft soon after the revalidation of its existing Air Operator Permit (AOP), the Jalan-Kalrock consortium, the airline's new promoters, said in a statement on Friday.

The consortium's plan to restart Jet, which was grounded in April 2019, comes at a time when the Omicron variant of coronavirus is posing a threat to domestic as well as international flight movement. Additionally, India's aviation sector is expected to become more competitive as highly funded Akasa will begin its operation early next year.

The consortium, whose plan to revive Jet was approved by the NCLT in June 2021, said that they have approached the National Company Law Tribunal (NCLT) to fast track the implementation of the resolution plan. "The consortium is ready with its investments and given the progress the team has made operationally since NCLT approval in June 2021, we feel it is time to fund the company immediately for revival of the business, without delay," said Murari Lal Jalan, lead member of the consortium and proposed promoter & non-executive chairman of Jet Airways.

He said, "We are aiming to start domestic operations at the earliest in 2022 as a full-service carrier."

On the fleet type, Florian Fritsch of Kalrock Capital Partners, said that Jet will commence its operations in 2022 with 6 narrow-body aircraft and reach 100+ aircraft fleet in 5-year.

On the revalidation of its existing AOC, the consortium said that they are confident of receiving the AOC in the coming months. On slots at key airports, including Delhi and Mumbai, the consortium said that they have held multiple rounds of discussions with all key airports and are confident to get the required slots in the summer schedule of 2022.

20k e-tailers on Shopee; CAIT seeks ban on firm

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU

WHILE traders lobby Confederation of All India Traders (CAIT) has urged Finance Minister Nirmala Sitharaman to ban Chinese e-commerce company Shopee, Singapore Transport Minister S Iswaran said at a CII Partnership Summit recently that Singapore's e-commerce company Shopee has commenced its operation in India a few months ago and that it has employed close to 300 staff and onboarded over 20,000 local sellers in India.

He said that this further strengthens the economic and people-to-people links between two countries.

CAIT has said that Shopee is operating in India against FEMA Rules and FDI Press Note of 2020 and that the Chinese e-commerce company has violated rules.

Many products are sold on Shopee at low prices of ₹1, ₹9, ₹49 etc. This is a deliberate pricing strategy adopted by the e-commerce giant with the intention of reducing prices of products to nonsensical and loss-making levels in the short-term; so as to undercut and extinguish small sellers and retailers in the long term, said the traders body.

In 2015, Shopee was launched in Singapore, Indonesia, Malaysia, Thailand, Taiwan, Vietnam and the Philippines. In 2018, its Gross Merchandise Value (GMV) stood at $10 billion with over 600 million transactions on the platform.

Airtel prepays ₹15,519 cr to DoT to clear all liabilities for 2014 spectrum

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU
@ New Delhi

BHARTI Airtel on Friday informed that it has paid ₹15,519 crore to the Department of Telecommunications (DoT) towards prepayment of the entire deferred liabilities pertaining to spectrum acquired in auction of 2014. The company had acquired 128.4 MHz spectrum (including Telenor spectrum) for a consideration of ₹19,051 crore in the 2014 auction. With this payment, the company estimates to save interest cost of at least ₹3,400 crore over the residual life for fully substituted capital.

"These liabilities were due in annual instalments from fiscal year (FY) 2026-2027 to 2031-2032 and carried an interest rate of 10% (the highest rate amongst the deferred liabilities and borrowings) and an average residual life of 7+ years," informed Airtel in a statement.

The company said it welcomes the DoT's decision giving the industry the flexibility to prepay their deferred liabilities at their NPV basis the interest rates specified for the respective auction. This allows the licencees to efficiently plan and use cash flows.

Experts opine that this prepayment will help Airtel in efficiently using its cash flow for the upcoming 5G spectrum auctions.

SBI increases benchmark lending rate by 0.1%

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU
@ New Delhi

COUNTRY'S largest lender State Bank of India (SBI) on Friday has increased benchmark lending rate or base rate by 0.1%.

With the increase the revised base rate is 7.55%, as per the information posted on SBI's website.

The new rate is effective from December 15, 2021, it said.

SBI also hiked the interest of fixed deposits above ₹2 crore, with effect from December 15, 2021. The revised interest rates will apply to new deposits as well as renewals of maturing deposits.

As SBI has migrated to External Benchmark Lending Rate (EBLR) linked to repo rate since January 2019, the decision will not impact loans taken since January 2019. But it will have bearing on people who took loan before that.

In the December monetary policy, RBI decided to keep the repo rate unchanged at 4%. This was the ninth time in a row when the central bank decided to maintain the status quo on benchmark lending rate to support growth rate.

The bank has also revised the benchmark prime lending rate to 12.3% from 12.2%.

With regard to domestic term deposits, the bank has decided to raise it by 0.1% for high value deposits over ₹2 crore.

Others banks are also likely to follow the move.

WORLDS HIS'TWO'RY

Srikanth, Lakshya assure two medals in World C'ships at Huelva

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Chennai

IN the 54-year and 26-edition history of the Badminton World Championships, India's men's players have underperformed. Barring two medals won by Prakash Padukone and Sai Praneeth, all the others have fallen by the wayside while striving for greatness. In that context, Friday could well go down as a red-letter day for men's badminton in the country. Both Kidambi Srikanth and Lakshya Sen, in roughly 30 minutes of each other, multiplied that tally. And one of them will create history by becoming the first Indian man — they play each other in the semifinals on Saturday — to feature in a Worlds final.

While Srikanth wiped the floor against Mark Caljouw in just 26 minutes (21-8, 21-7), Sen had to dig deep to prevail against Zhao Jun Peng. In fact, he was down a match point in the third stanza when he produced three high quality points to reach the last four. The 21-15, 15-21, 22-20 scoreline reflected the topsy-turvy encounter. A body smash kept him in the tournament and a barely believable backhand down-the-line winner earned him match point. He followed that with an easy put away into the open court before throwing his racquet into the air.

Lakshya Sen (L) and Kidambi Srikanth will face each other in the semifinal of the Badminton World Championships on Saturday | AP

RESULTS (ALL QUARTERFINALS)

Srikanth bt Caljouw 21-8, 21-7, Sen bt Jun Peng 21-15, 15-21, 22-20, Yew bt Prannoy 21-14, 21-12

WOMEN'S SINGLES

Tai Tzu bt Sindhu 21-17, 21-13.

For an athlete labelled as 'Indian badminton's next big thing', a medal on debut will be a relief more than anything. Having lost a few tight games and matches in the year, this win shows he does have the character to stage a fight. Whatever happens in that match against Srikanth, this could be the moment when Sen's career trajectory shows a clear northward shift.

Another man who will have designs of being in Paris is Srikanth, who failed to qualify for the Olympics. However, that obscures his very good recent form. Even if his ranking is 14, he's No 3 in the 'Race to Guanzhou'. He reached the semifinals in two of his last four events.

Both medals, though, will have to be put in proper context. With the tournament coming just after the Olympics and at the fag end of a punishing season amid a global pandemic, it's not the strongest possible field. Indonesia, who have two players in the top seven, pulled out the entire contingent because of the new variant Omicron. Not to take anything away from the two Indians but the draw certainly made it easier for them to spring a surprise.

One Indian who was hoping to spring a surprise was PV Sindhu but she fell to, Tai Tzu Ying in the quarters. Truth be said, Tai didn't give Sindhu a sniff. In the end, the 21-17, 21-13 scoreline summed up her performance. HS Prannoy also lost in the quarters, Loh Kean Yew downing him 21-14, 21-12.

National Anti-Doping Bill tabled

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Chennai

FINALLY, the National Anti-Doping Bill was tabled in the Parliament on Friday. Sports minister Anurag Thakur tabled the Bill that would ensure NADA has more legal powers to penalise doping violators and their support staff as well as conduct raids and seize equipment, device, substance that is associated with doping.

Noah ready for Dakar test

ASHIM SUNAM @Bengaluru

THE Dakar Rally is said to be one of the most challenging in the world of motorsport with athletes having to deal with desert, sand dunes, rocky terrains among others. India's Harith Noah has featured in two such editions, and impressed with a top-20 finish earlier in the year, which is the best ever by an Indian. It is an achievement in itself. Now, the 26-year-old is in the final stages of his preparation for the upcoming Dakar Rally, which starts from January 2 in Saudi Arabia.

After his impressive show in the last edition, he spent some time at his hometown in Kerala, where he trained too. It was in September that Noah traveled to Europe for further training and to get in shape for his third Dakar. Besides training in Spain and France, he was also at the Moroccan deserts. However, he couldn't travel back to Morocco further due to the Covid-19 threat.

Currently in France, he is in his last week of training. Next week onwards, he will spend less time in training. In the final week before the competition, Noah will not do much in order to recharge his batteries ahead of the grueling test. He is not thinking too much about where he will finish next year, and just wants to take it one kilometer at a time.

"Like last year as well as the year before, I never looked at the results, so that is the same strategy, which I am going ahead (with) this time too. Basically, I don't know where I will finish."

Harmanpreet brace lifts India past Pak

AGENCIES @Dhaka

HARMANPREET Singh scored a brace as Olympic bronze-medallists India defeated Pakistan 3-1 to register their second consecutive win and virtually qualify for the semifinals of the Asian Champions Trophy men's hockey tournament here on Friday.

Harmanpreet (8th, 53rd minutes) converted two penalty corners, while Akashdeep Singh, who couldn't make the Olympics squad, found the net from a field effort in the 42nd minute for his second goal of the tournament. Pakistan's lone goal was scored by Junaid Manzoor in the 45th minute. India are currently leading the points table and will take on Japan in their last round-robin match on Sunday.

Can only give ourselves the best chance to prepare: S Raman

GOMESH S @Chennai

WHEN S Raman took to coaching in the mid-2000s after a successful career playing Table Tennis — Commonwealth and South Asian Games gold medalist, an Olympian and an Arjuna awardee — he wanted to help players achieve things he couldn't. Almost 15 years later, he was conferred with the Dronacharya Award for his excellence in coaching and developing world-class paddlers.

But the journey hasn't been a cakewalk. "I have learnt quite a bit as a coach than as a player," Raman told this daily. "I've been into coaching for 15 years, so there is a lot of learning. We, when I say we, players I have worked with have grown from strength to strength. What I couldn't achieve, the players I have coached have achieved more than that."

For any athlete to achieve glory in their respective sport, a good rapport with the coach is required. It becomes even more imperative in an individual sport. Having worked with numerous athletes over the years, Raman has had his share of disagreements over methods and strategies over the years. However, he feels that those were just in the early days, and once the players started trusting his ability to deliver, there hadn't been any issues.

"Definitely, there will be some adjustments. You don't learn and stay in the same course; you use those learnings and keep moving higher and better. The goal post has never changed, the pathway, I wouldn't say changed, but realigned to make ways for all those learnings to come into play."

With Table Tennis evolving over the years, Raman has had to adapt and let go of certain things to make progress."There are a lot of things that happened on the technical side than you have on the game front. Also the ball has been changed, there is a different element of speed and spin involved. So, we need to muscle up a little bit more; on the physical side we have to do a bit more and we did that." When asked about his coaching philosophy, he said that the fundamental approach has to be based on the players' strength. "The foundation should be on your player's strength; not moving away from your strength point of view and then trying to take a little different variant for different players."

Spyware discovery sheds light on hackers for hire

TECH

BOSTON: Security researchers said on Thursday they found two kinds of commercial spyware on the phone of a leading exiled Egyptian dissident, providing new evidence of the depth and diversity of the abusive hacker-for-hire industry.

One piece of malware recently found on an iPhone belonging to Ayman Nour, a dissident and 2005 Egyptian presidential candidate who subsequently spent three years in jail, originated with the increasingly embattled NSO Group of Israel. That company was recently blacklisted by Washington. The other was from a company called Cytrox, which also has Israeli ties. This was the first documentation of a hack by Cytrox, a little-known NSO Group rival.

The spyware was uncovered by digital sleuths at the University of Toronto's Citizen Lab, who said two different governments hired the competing mercenaries to hack Nour's phone. Both instances of malware were simultaneously active on the phone, investigators said after examining its logs. The researchers said they traced the Cytrox hack to Egypt but didn't know who was behind the NSO Group infection. The researchers said in a report that the intrusions highlight how "hacking civil society transcends any specific mercenary spyware company."

In detailing the Cytrox infection, the researchers said they found the phone of a second Egyptian exile, who asked not to be identified, also hacked with Cytrox's Predator malware. But the bigger discovery, in a joint probe with Facebook, was that Cytrox has customers in countries beyond Egypt including Armenia, Greece, Indonesia, Madagascar, Oman, Saudi Arabia, and Serbia.

Facebook's owner, Meta, announced on Thursday a flurry of takedowns of accounts affiliated with seven surveillance-for-hire firms — including Cytrox — and notified about 50,000 people in more than 100 countries including journalists, dissidents and clergy who may have been targeted by them. It said it deleted about 300 Facebook and Instagram accounts linked to Cytrox, which appears to operate out of North Macedonia.

Cytrox's last known CEO, Ivo Malinkovski, could not be located for comment. He scrubbed his LinkedIn page earlier this month to remove mention of his Cytrox affiliation -- though a coffee mug with the company name was in his profile photo. The business intelligence website Crunchbase says Cytrox was founded in a Tel Aviv suburb in 2017.

Meteor's size doesn't matter

SPACE

The composition of the rocks a meteorite hits when it arrives on Earth determines how deadly of an impact it will be, not just its size, according to a new study. The Earth has been bombarded by rocks from space throughout its 4.5 billion year history, generating atmospheric dust and covering the surface with debris. Now, an expert team wanted to find out why some meteorites caused mass extinction events like the one that killed the dinosaurs, while others were less deadly. Researchers from the University of Liverpool analysed 44 impacts over the past 600 million years. They found that those that hit rocks rich in potassium feldspar always lead to a mass extinction, regardless of the size of the meteorite itself. Potassium feldspar is non-toxic but acts as a powerful ice-nucleating aerosol that strongly affects cloud dynamics. It allows clouds to let through more solar radiation, which in turn warms up the planet.

OMICRON SCARE

People queuing for booster shots in London on Friday | AFP

Fresh bout of curbs in Europe

COVID

LONDON: The British government on Friday reported 93,045 new coronavirus cases, a third consecutive record daily tally, as the Omicron variant fuels a surge in infections.

The latest data brings the total number of infections during the pandemic to more than 11.1 million, while the UK also registered a further 111 deaths from the virus, taking the death toll to more than 1,47,000.

Scotland First Minister Nicola Sturgeon said Omicron is now the country's dominant coronavirus strain, adding "the tsunami I warned about a week ago is now starting to hit us".

And Welsh leader Mark Drakeford told citizens to brace for the "storm of Omicron" having announced the country's nightclubs will close after December 26 and social distancing reintroduced in shops and workplaces.

Britain is currently rolling out a mass booster drive in order to vaccinate as many people as possible before the end of the year. Meanwhile, passengers on Friday rushed to beat a midnight deadline for travel to and from Britain and France, complaining of an overly-draconian reaction and costly last-minute ticket changes before tough new Covid restrictions come into force.

After midnight French time, (2300 GMT Friday) travellers will need to show a compelling reason for travel between the two countries, under shock new rules announced on Thursday by France to combat the Omicron variant of Covid-19.

The only exemptions for needing a compelling reason are for French and European travellers returning to France and British passengers heading in the other direction.

Switzerland will step up anti-Covid measures on Monday with a return to working from home and curbs on the unvaccinated, as the country battles an intense fifth wave of the virus. The new measures come as authorities anticipate the arrival of the highly-mutated Omicron, believed to be more contagious.

Denmark announced Friday it would close cinemas, theatres and concert halls and restrict restaurant opening hours over a record number of daily cases, accelerated by the Omicron variant. The government also plans to close other gathering places such as amusement parks and museums. "Theatres, cinemas and concert halls, they will have to close," Prime Minister Mette Frederiksen told a news conference.

TIGHTER REGULATIONS IN GERMANY AS CASES SOAR

Germany has reimposed health restrictions following high case numbers, barring unvaccinated people from restaurants and non-essential commerce. The government has also placed an advance order for 80 million doses of Omicron-specific vaccines being developed by Pfizer and BioNTech. Germany on Friday reported over 50,000 new cases, according to the RKI health agency. The proportion of the population to have already received two doses surpassed 70% this week

THE ROYAL ROUTE

On the 156th birth anniversary of GH Krumbiegel, Ganesh Shankar Raj, a city-based filmmaker captures the life and times of the botanist in The Maharaja's German Gardener

MONIKA MONALISA

THOUGH Bengaluru was always a green city, it earned the title of Garden City because of one particular person – Gustav Hermann Krumbiegel. And city-based filmmaker Ganesh Shankar Raj's latest documentary, The Maharaja's German Gardener, is based on the story of this German botanist. The movie released on YouTube channel, Mindia.

At any point in the year, you will find a flower in bloom in Bengaluru. Like many others, Hegde never delved too much over this. However, it was a visit in 2016 to the Lalbagh Botanical garden that he got to know about Krumbiegel, who had served as an economic botanist and superintendent in 1908, which is when his interest spiked. "My curiosity to know about him increased which pushed me into the rabbit hole of knowing more about him," says the 47-year-old documentary filmmaker. Krumbiegel, whose 156th birth anniversary is on Dec 18, was also the man behind the planning of Brindavan Garden, gardens in the Mysore Palace.

Although started in 2016, it took five years for Raj to finish the project. "I didn't want to do it in a hurry and wanted to show the places – Hyde Park, Kew Gardens in England and Dresden in Germany, where he was born ," says Raj, who got in touch with Consulate General of the Federal Republic of Germany.

Apart from funds, it was also the lockdown that impacted the shooting. "There were also delays because of permissions. For instance, the current management of Jubilee park in Jamshedpur, which comes under Tata Steel, had no records of Krumbiegel working on designing the park, so we were not allowed to shoot. We had to send some old records to prove this fact," he says, adding that the Kew Gardens is planning to embed the film on their website, while state palace Saxony in Germany will embed the link and screen the documentary at the Krumbiegel exhibition which will take place during January 2022.

For Alyia Krumbiegel, great-granddaughter of G H Krumbiegel, who watched the documentary at home in the UK, it was an emotional moment. "My great grandfather's story always deserves to be told," she says.

> As I researched, more layers started peeling off. Even though Krumbiegel was German, his connection with England and his green footprints are across the country
>
> Ganesh Shankar Raj, filmmaker

KRUMBIEGEL'S INDIA JOURNEY

In 1893, he was invited to India, from Kew Gardens in England where he was working then, to work in the gardens of Laxmi Vilas Palace of Baroda. His real connection with the Mysuru royals started when Krishnaraja Wodeyar, got a good reference of Krumbiegel from Maharaja Sayajirao Gaekwad III and in 1907 offered to serve him. Apart from Karnataka, one can see Krumbiegel's work in Laxmi Vilas Palace, Baroda, Raj Ghat, Delhi, Kowdiar Palace, Thiruvananthapuram.

MIRROR GAZING PRACTICE

'Mirror Gazing' is a powerful health and wellness tool that can renew one's sense of self and improve self-image. ThatvugnaniVethathiri Maharishi (14.8.1911 – 28.3.2006) — a spiritual leader, world peace activist, scientist, philosopher, Ayurvedic and homeopathic practitioner, founder-trustee of World Community Service Centre (WCSC), who presented a blueprint at United Nations for World Peace —initiated Mirror Gazing Practice in his Simplified Kundalini Yoga (SKY) meditation for the last 50 years as technique to improve the energy source for humans. He modified the mirror practice into very simple to all the common people.

STEPS

- Sit in Sukhasana at a distance of 3 to 5 feet from the meditation mirror (2½' x 1½'), covering your full view. Fix your mirror in a way that no moving object is seen behind, to avoid distractions.
- Start with Vazhga Vaiyagam, Vazhga Vaiyagam, Vazhga Valamudan or Lokah Samastha, Sukhinoh Bhavanthu. Or may the whole world enjoy prosperity, happiness and peace.
- Nadi Shuddhi Pranayama (10 times), followed by Clearance Pranayama (5 minutes).
- The atmosphere around us is being purified by the Divine Power (3 times).
- Divine power descends upon us and our body and soul are being purified and blessed. (3 times).
- May the Divine power protect us, guide us and lead us day and night, at all times, at all places and all in our activities. (1 time).
- Salutation to mother, father, and Guru. (1 time)
- Agna Meditation (2 minutes)
- Gaze at the mirror (2 minutes). Close your eyes with your palms. Visualise the entire body with awareness of the bio-magnetism circulating within. (3 minutes). Practice any time from 3 to 9 am, ideal between 4.30 am and 7.30 am.

BENEFITS

- Life-energy will be visible in the form of a thin mist, if the body awareness is less than 51%.
- Images of people close to us may appear or our own may disappear from the mirror.
- Reduces unnecessary fears, excitement, confusion, etc.
- Astral body becomes bigger and stronger.

LIMITATIONS

- Pregnant women and untrained people should avoid this.
- Practise under the guidance of yoga master.

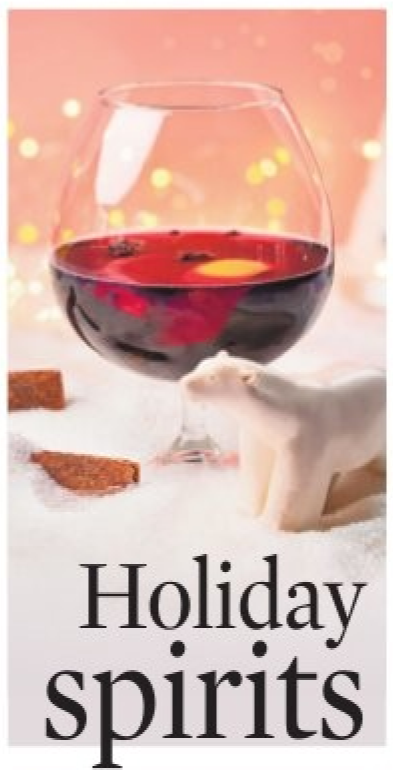
Holiday spirits



RAVI SINGH

The writer is bar manager, Suzy Q by 1522

'TIS the season to be jolly, and nothing gets you going at this time of the year like a festive cocktail, be it fizzy or warm. One usually associates the season with classic favourites like Mulled Wine, Eggnog, Hot Buttered Rum, and Christmas Punch, and of course, Champagne never goes out of style or out of season.

There are also many other festive favourites from around the world like Holly Jolly Christmas Citrus cocktail, Holiday Mai Tai, and Hot Toddy to name a few. Most bars tend to have an offering of these cocktails during the festive season.

As we edge closer to Christmas and the winter cold starts to increase, I would recommend a few of my favourite festive cocktails. These cocktails are guaranteed to bring you the warmth and comfort that you need this season!

Mulled Wine

Classic mulled wine is one of the best things about the holiday season, and is a very traditional beverage, which was originally made by thrifty households as a way to extend the lifespan of stale wine in the Middle Ages. It's a beginner-friendly wine, so it's ideal if one has never made it before. Mine is the classic recipe and it doesn't mess with success. Heat red wine with festive spices like nutmeg, clove, and cinnamon. Add some honey to sweeten, and quaff like a thirsty English peasant.

Eggnog

Another yuletide must-have, is eggnog, which is a rich and creamy beverage. You can use a variety of different liquors as the base but one should go with vodka and amaretto for the deep, nutty flavour. Shake it up, pour it out, and garnish it with caramel sauce. This boozy milkshake is a dreamy delight.

Hot Buttered Rum

The name Hot Buttered Rum sounds as if its straight out of an Enid Blyton story, but it's definitely not for children. This lip-smacking, belly-warming good-old rum-based cocktail made with butter, spices, brown sugar, and, of course, rum, will certainly make you a very popular cocktail host if you serve it hot to your eager guests.

Let loose the inner bartender in you this year and get the holiday spirits flowing!

Good morning, Bangalore!

A roller-coaster ride is what it is! My life and the shenanigans that seem to dog my footsteps, has left me feeling that the famous Carole King rock-song, 'The earth moves under my feet' was written for me! Now, before you guys start reading subcutaneous (love that analogy) meanings into that phase, I meant whizz-by or fast-paced!

Our good friend, Puneet Dhawan, head honcho of a French conglomerate of hotels, flew into our city to 'work and play'! He and his wife were a very popular part of our city's diaspora a couple of years ago. Their friend circle in namma ooru is wide and varied too. Of course, because I feel that I have proprietary rights over his time, from the moment he landed in our city, he was my 'prisoner of Zenda'! The days flew by in a merry blur of soirees, transfer of data (read a little harmless gossip), a whole lot of imbibing madeira, eating and laughing in the fantastic company of friends! It's wonderful to feel like a bunch of carefree millennials without a care in the world. This twilight-zone type atmosphere was ruining my vibe. I was losing my edge!

There was a slew of private get-togethers hosted by 'very' private individuals (read auld Bengalureans), who would not like to be a cynosure, only because they would like to keep the 'riff' an arm's length away from the 'raff'. As you, my readers, keep reading me, you will get more and more familiar with my termalogy. The creme-de-la-creme of the city hosted very elegant dinner parties…all sit-down with charming nameplates to designate our seating and (I swear I kid you not) practically one wait staff behind each chair to do our bidding! Now that is the way to live… elegantly and with panache.

Kiran Karla and Amitabh Rai

Jimmy Mistry

Puneet was like a breath of fresh air who blew into the city. His cheerful demeanor seemed to rub off on all his pals from the hospitality industry. We did a quick 'pop in and out' at The Ritz Carlton, for very stylish and decorous evening of lighting the Christmas tree and carol singing by an enthusiastic group of youngsters. Since there was a discerning ensemble of invitees, the evening was marked by good cheer and bonhomie. The ever-courteous Amitabh Rai was his usual sophisticated self. I met up with a group of Japanese delegates who were conducting a wine tasting for Grover Wines which they wanted to import into Japan! Who would have thought, huh? After much bowing, I asked them how we would wish 'a merry Christmas' in Japanese, and amidst much laughter I was told…'Merry Christmas'!

We had to rush off to the very swanky Le Cirque at The Leela for a networking event hosted by the multi- entrepreneurial Jimmy Mistry from amchi Mumba who has a slew of businesses that range from hospitality to real estate. He is the founder of the Della group, a global community of entrepreneurs and leaders.

All very well said and done but we were in for a visual stupefaction when we saw the teeming crowd of super confident young people dressed in 'festive' tight clothes and music playing and a happy bar! The food was exceptional (but buffet) and the 'venerable' and the 'vulnerable' gelled quite seamlessly. Traditional networking has come a long way baby!

I was looking forward to the afternoon brunch to celebrate the wedding anniversary of the much-loved Abhijit and Shruti Saha. The 'brunch' stretched into a late evening soiree.

When so many good friends get together (some of us hadn't seen each other for over a year), make it a point to put aside our fears and celebrate…there cannot be a doubt about the camaraderie and fun factor. More so when two of Bengaluru's finest chefs Abhijit and Vikas Seth join hands to give their friends a raucous time. Viva friendships!

We also promote Bio jewellery (Spiritual Jewellery item studded with stones & Rudraksh).

DUPLICACY

Nepal is the biggest producer of Rudraksha because of lack of supply of good seeds and price hike year by year. But with demand from western countries and South Asian countries, duplicacy has increased because supply is less.

ADITI PRABHUDEVA IS UTTERLY CONVINCING AS AANA IN EVERY ASPECT

AANA

Cast: Aditi Prabhudeva, Sunil Puranik

Director: Manoj P Nadalumane

A SHARADHAA

AHEAD of Aana's release, many little details about the film created a lot of expectations about director Manoj Nadalumane's debut, which was touted as a supernatural thriller. However, Aana turned out to be more of a crime thriller with a little touch of horror elements.

The director has rooted the film in the current Covid situation, where a lot of people are losing jobs. The film is about one such group of techies. Unable to cater to their luxurious lifestyle due to the lockdown recession, they end up kidnapping two young girls for quick money. One of them turns out to be Aana (Aditi Prabhudeva), the daughter of businessman Naga Varma (Sunil Puranik). The gang realises they have messed up with the wrong girl when Aana exhibits superpowers. Predominantly, the film has bits and pieces of superhero stuff, but the real fireworks happen towards the end. As the film comes to a close, we get a new female superhero in Kannada cinema.

Aana kicks off with many intriguing ideas, but all the initial build-ups in the horror fantasy taper off as the film progresses. However, one has to give it to the director's genuine efforts in the writing, which might have not been translated efficiently on the screen. The flat narration doesn't hold us on to the film for a long time. The film would have worked better had the superhero elements were placed throughout the film instead of heaping all for the end.

For Aditi Prabhudeva, this is the first-of-its-kind role, and she has given her best in all aspects. In the end, she even shines as this female superhero. The rest of the cast (Ranveer Shivkumar, Vikash Uttaiah, Samarth Narasimharaju, Varun Amaravathi, Karthik Nagarajan, and Prerna Kambam) have tried to put in their best effort, but they didn't hold my attention for long. Those looking for some thrills can experience it in Rithvik Muralidhar's background score. The music director, who has understood the subject, has done an impressive job. However, there is something amiss with cinematographer Uday Leela's work.

RATING
2.5/5

Overall, Aana is a brave attempt by the writer and first-time director, Manoj Nadalumane. There is a taut story, but it does not turn out to be an out-and-out horror fantasy. The end sequence of Aditi's rise as a female superhero hints at a sequel. If at all it is in the making, can we look forward to more spine-chilling moments?

Allu Arjun is all swagger in a film that falters

PUSHPA: THE RISE – PART 1

Cast: Allu Arjun, Sunil, Rao Ramesh, Rashmika

Director: Sukumar

SUDHIR SRINIVASAN

LET it be said clearly and loudly that the foremost attraction in Pushpa: The Rise – Part 1 is the characterisation of the protagonist, Pushpa, and in equal parts, the performance of Allu Arjun that's so casually charismatic. Come to think of it, it's quite strange that we can't keep our eyes off Pushparaj. The man has unkempt hair, a peculiar manner of walking with the shoulders rather lopsided, clothes that seem barely washed, and when this man does speak, he aims to sting. And yet, Allu Arjun has internalised this character and plays it with such effortless style that it's impossible not to buy him, quirks and all.

Director Sukumar tries to make him accessible by showing him as an underdog at the very bottom of a vicious power hierarchy. He also, rather manipulatively, establishes that Pushpa is an illegitimate child, chiefly, it seems, to win our support. But he perhaps doesn't realise that we are already invested in Pushpa, largely on account of terrific dialogues, delivered with the rough bite of the Chittoor dialect. It's to Sukumar's credit that this character never strays from this casual arrogance that defines him.

RATING
3/5

Also to Sukumar's credit is how he manages to pull off the unenviable job of making a rather dry subject—red sanders-smuggling—so entertaining in unexpected ways. Who would have thought that the visual of tree logs floating by in a river would result in such entertainment? A vast part of this film's enjoyment is contained in the pre-interval portions when the filmmaker, whilst ensuring every scene explodes with wit and humour, introduces us to the power hierarchy and the impossibility of rising in such a rigged system. In Wasseypur-esque fashion, we also see that there are barely any decent men in this universe (a police inspector is an exception). Unlike in the Kashyap films though, there's just a single protagonist here, and played by a celebrated star to boot. I felt the uncomfortable dissonance of watching a murderous smuggler being presented as a mass hero worthy of adulation. Sure, he's comparatively kind to women (and that's barely saying anything), but does it necessarily make him worthy of cinematic adoration?

The women are largely bystanders and victims, and while that might well be a commentary of the oppressive world around them, some of the film's choices show that its view isn't perhaps so well-intended. The big item song, 'Ooh antaava', is hardly the subversion many imagined it to be. The lyrics pretend to attack, but the song, the video, the situation... it all aims to please. Srivalli, meanwhile, is defined by the speed at which her saree falls off, each time she comes into focus. There's a late half-hearted attempt in the film to force some agency into Srivalli's character, but the weak monologue from her only seems like a crafty excuse. Pushpa meanwhile revels in his celebration of masculinity by rescuing her, and Srivalli responds by worshipping the sand that he walks on, whilst calling him 'Saami'. There's a scene in which a tearful Srivalli readies herself for incoming exploitation by taking bath and dressing up. On some level, it only ends up seeming like a metaphor for roles like this.

Many of these issues raise their ugly head after the interval, with the story losing its sense of direction, as it hurtles into a bizarre end featuring Fahadh Faasil who comes in from nowhere. The subplots stand unresolved, the high of Pushpa's rise has already been forgotten, and yet, this film goes on and on, like a derailed train that's a danger to both itself and everyone else.

And yet, let it be said loudly and clearly that Pushpa isn't a bad film or even a lazy film for that matter. You can see evidence of this largely in—allow me to re-emphasise this—its terrific dialogues and the humour within. And yet, for all of Allu Arjun's charms, this film should have done better. The question now is, will the makers be allowed another stab at it with a follow-up film? For all its flaws, I do think director Sukumar, on evidence of some inspired filmmaking during the pre-interval portions, deserves a chance to complete his vision. Perhaps that way, we might find some fulfillment too.

Sampada Hulivana

SAMPADA Hulivana, who started her career on the small screen, is set to enter Sandalwood with the upcoming Nikhil Kumaraswamy's Rider. Sampada will be seen in a prominent as the second lead and is happy to be sharing screen space with Nikhil in the Vijay Kumar Konda directorial that also stars Kashmira Pardesi. THE BEST SPIDER-MAN FILM TO DATE

SPIDER-MAN: NO WAY HOME

Cast: Tom Holland, Zendaya, Benedict Cumberbatch, Willem Dafoe, Alfred Molina, Marisa Tomei, Jamie Foxx

Director: Jon Watts

GOPINATH RAJENDRAN

WITH great power comes great responsibility and the bigwigs at Marvel seem to be aware of this. In a sense, this studio is the Doctor Strange of Hollywood, pulling off neat magic tricks and creating an enjoyable illusion from which there's no escape. But if your reward is films like Spider-Man: No Way Home, then really, there's not much to complain about. Apart from fitting in perfectly with the head honcho's grand scheme involving the multiverse, the film also packs the humour and action unique to the web-slinging superhero while also being surprisingly emotional.

The film begins from where it ended in Spider-Man: Far from Home (2019), with Peter Parker (Tom Holland) dealing with his identity having been revealed. The Daily Bugle's J Jonah Jameson (JK Simmons) goes to town with it, and this takes a toll not just on him but also on his girlfriend MJ (Zendaya) and best friend Ned Leeds (Jacob Batalon). Parker, in the absence of Tony Stark, seeks the help of Stephen Strange (Benedict Cumberbatch), and a spell or two later, all hell breaks loose, quite literally, causing multiple universes to collide and bring in those who know Peter Parker from other universes. What does it mean? Multiple Aunt Mays? Multiple MJs? No such luck for our Peter Parker. He gets Dr Otto Octavius/Doctor Octopus (Alfred Molina), Norman Osborn/Green Goblin (Willem Dafoe), Max Dillon/Electro (Jamie Foxx), Dr Curt Connors/Lizard (Rhys Ifans), and Flint Marko/Sandman (Thomas Haden Church), all villains from the Sam Raimi and Marc Webb-directed Spider-Man films. All these talents explode with quality in a way that might even threaten the Avengers: Endgame film.

RATING

Dafoe aces as the scientist and Oscorp CEO-turned-villain Green Goblin who suffers from split personality. Molina and Foxx add unpredictability to the screenplay while the rest, well, they play their parts. The story distances them from their villainy, partly anyway, and allows them to travel with Parker, who believes in empathy and second chances. This is a film that beyond all the action and drama, shows an eagerness to dig into the psyche of characters. It taps into people's sense of moral ambiguity and discusses mental health, and this really sets it apart from not just previous Spider-Man films, but also MCU in general. The problems are universal, or in this case, multiversal, and yet, the solutions are fascinatingly personal, rooted, and emotional.

While Spider-Man: No Way Home excels at these new ideas, it also remembers to cash in on ideas that the older Spider-Man films were good at: the action and humour, mainly. Apart from referencing the older films and the many characters from them, No Way Home also pays homage to several other classics like the Star Wars films, Goodfellas and The Equalizer. Director Jon Watts, who also directed the first two films of the current franchise, leaves no stones unturned when it comes to fan service, and thankfully, they all exist organically within the story and doesn't feel like lip service. We see Spidey in a black and gold suit, and we see him again with Strange's Cloak of Levitation, a callback to an episode from What if? There's even a reference to Miles Morales, the first black Spider-Man.

MARVEL STUDIOS

Parker, in the current franchise, has always been a confused teenager, prone to mistakes that he tries to later rectify. This occurs in No Way Home on a much larger scale and while Parker is pushed into being a bystander in many scenes, he does bring in vulnerability and determination to this character. He might say that he's the "most famous person in the entire world and yet, broke", but the character's riches concern all the love he earns. Holland, along with Zendaya and Batalon, put up a brilliant show right from the get-go and deliver their best even in the third act where the spotlight rarely shines on them. Without giving away too much, let's just say it's a tremendously satisfying final act.

Throw into this mix the cheeky Strange along with his bag of tricks, and we get a method to all the madness. When Spider-Man and Strange end up in a tug of war in the mirror dimension, it makes for some stunning visuals and VFX work. No Way Home is also a reminder of how much has changed technologically from the old Spider-Man films. If Spider-Man 2 (2004) saw Octavius' mechanical tentacles being controlled through puppetry, today, of course, it's all CGI.

At a time when superhero fatigue is growing, and the Villeneuves and Scorseses are loudly critical of this genre, No Way Home shows that a friendly neighbourhood hero can manage to have his own film with a story that's unique and yet, brings into fore plenty of nostalgia from two decades ago. The film comfortably earns itself a place among some of Marvel's best work, including Avengers: Endgame and Black Panther. With great power comes great responsibility and while Stark and Uncle Ben might have loved to see how responsible Parker has become, I couldn't, while walking out of the theatre, stop wondering about what Stan Lee might have felt about all the evolution his characters have witnessed, and the fantastical journeys they are set to go on.
